Astronaut Set For First U. S. Hop Into Space Identity Of Man Still Secret

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut X — his identity a secret — tapered off in seclusion Sunday, less than 48 hours before making history as the first American to try to penetrate space.

Expectancy and excitement gripped the nearby resort town of Cocoa Beach where some 450 U.S. and foreign newsmen concentrated for the man-in-space launch, expected shortly after dawn on Tuesday.

Just about everybody had his own hunch as to which of the three "finalists" among the U.S. astronauts would step out of hangar "S" on Tuesday, revealed for the first time as the first Yank to ride a rocket-boosted capsule into near space.

Many seemed to be betting on Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., a green-eyed, red-haired Marine from New Concord, Ohio. At 39, he is the oldest of the group.

But there were plenty of backers for Navy Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr., 37, of East Derry, N.H., and Air Force Capt. Virgil L. Grissom, 35, of Mitchell Ind.

Some "guessers" eliminated Grissom after he was seen eating in a Cocoa Beach restaurant Saturday night. The astronauts in the final days before launch are supposed to eat carefully-controlled diet served in the spaceman "ready room" at the Cape.

On the flat, virtually treeless expanse of this missile test center, the Redstone ballistic missile and the 3,000-pound, cone-shaped space capsule stood locked in the gantry, a red steel tower which will be rolled away shortly before launch.

Final work was being done on the capsule, hidden behind green fiberglass paneling.

Some 3½ miles away, the chosen astronaut and his alternate — who would make the 115-mile-high journey if the principal became ill — rested in their special aqua — tinted quarters on the second floor of Hangar "S."

There may be another rehearsal Monday of the impending short range space mission.

But to all intents and purposes, they are about as ready as technical ingenuity and foresight and their two years of almost incredibly detailed training could make them.

The scientists and technicians who gave birth to Project Mercury and helped it grow since October 1958 say that every possible safeguard has been provided to assure that the astronaut comes through well and sound.

This 15-minute suborbital flight — which will carry the capsule and space pilot on a steep arc nearly 300 miles out into the Atlantic — does not entail quite as much risk as later orbital flights around the earth.

But there will be risk enough. Built into the system are automatic devices to throw the capsule clear if the rocket should develop a malfunction. These devices could be triggered by the Mercury ground team, which will monitor the astronaut's trip every step of the way with electronic gear.

U.S. Officials Regard Move As Promising

Kennedy Curtails Va. Stay; Military Secrecy In Effect

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Lao-tian rebels' offer to discuss a cease-fire stirred well-qualified private hopes Sunday but no public optimism among administration officials.

Meanwhile, plans went forward for President Kennedy's meeting Monday with the National Security Council — the fourth session for that top strategy group within 10 days and perhaps the critical one in the crisis of Laos.

Unexpectedly, Kennedy cut short his weekend visit at his farm retreat near Middleburg, Va., and returned to the White House late in the afternoon. There was no indication whether the Laos situation figured in this but soon after his arrival here by helicopter the President went into a conference with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

While diplomats held to a wait-and-see position — at least until Monday — the nation's armed forces appeared to be preparing for any role they may be called on to play in Southeast Asia or elsewhere. But they were doing it in a tight-drawn secrecy equalled only in wartime.

No Official Word

The State Department studied with interest news dispatches from Laos which told of a rebel cease-fire offer but said the department had no official word. In the absence of such word, there was no official comment but one official said privately the reported move by Prince Souvanna Phouma "is encouraging — if true."

News dispatches said Souvanna, recognized as premier by the Communist-led Pathet Lao rebels, offered to meet government representatives in a sort of no-man's-land 35 miles north of Vientiane, administrative capital of Laos.

It was the first time the rebels had offered to meet anywhere outside their own strongholds. It raised a possibility that the cease-fire issue may be pretty well resolved by the time the Security Council meets at the White House late Monday. It will then be early Tuesday in Laos.

Rusk spent much of Sunday at his office conferring with his Far East advisors. It was apparent there was deepening conviction that the present situation could not continue much longer.

U.S. Consults With Allies

It was made known that the United States is consulting with its allies. Presumably it is making clear its fear that complete collapse of the royal government cannot be long delayed if rebel pressure continues and there is no outside help.

The United States, however, did not lay down any hard deadline on a cease-fire.

The Pentagon was solidly silent Sunday but there was one clear sign of military preparations on this side of the Pacific. This came in the sudden, 11th hour cancellation of a 6,000-man training mission to Europe.

Troops standing ready to board a fleet of about 300 transoceanic transport planes were returned to their barracks at Ft. Campbell, Ky., at mid-afternoon Saturday. They were scheduled to begin arriving in Germany Sunday.

Police Safe Looted

BARNES, England (AP) — Police gruffly admitted the theft of 74 pounds ($200) from a safe inside the local police station Sunday. Senior detectives were called in to interrogate constables and other staff subordinates.

AFL-CIO Calls For Vast Public Works Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO called Sunday for a vast program of public works at federal, state and local levels to fight unemployment.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, made public a letter he has sent to President Kennedy urging:

1. Appropriation of $1 billion for grants to state and local governments to encourage fast starts on projects which Meany said already are planned and ready to roll.
2. An increase in long-term loans to states and their subdivisions with low interest — or no interest — for community facility projects. Meany proposed this be done through existing agencies. He did not specify any definite sum.
3. Channeling of an additional

$2 billion into federal public works projects by authorizing the President to divert this money from unexpended balances of funds already set aside for executive departments.

Meany's letter said the most urgent need is for a speedup in public works. But he recommended also a temporary income tax reduction of unspecified amount, plus a general reduction in interest rates. Also he asked a 4.5 per cent maximum rate on federally guaranteed home mortgages.

Meany said on a recorded network radio program (MBS-Labor News Conference) that he has received no reply as yet to his letter of April 21.

The union leader said also that while the program would require added federal spending it would not necessarily mean added taxes.

Ban-Bomb Demonstrators Seized

London policemen had to carry these ban-the-bomb demonstrators to waiting trucks and vans as they broke up a sitdown protest against nuclear weapons in the British capital's Whitehall, site of the main government buildings. The demonstrators, following instructions of their civil disobedience group chiefs, went limp at the approach of the police. (AP Photofax via radio)

Senators Split On What To Do About Castro

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Democratic and a Republican senator said Sunday if Latin-American nations refuse to help the United States should act forcefully to depose Prime Minister Fidel Castro in Cuba. Other senators called for economic boycott and still others ran up go-slow signals.

Sens. Herman Talmade, D-Ga., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., agreed they are willing to risk the loss of Laos, Iran and other areas in retaliatory action by the Communists if military measures are needed to oust the Reds from Cuba.

But Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., said any such adventure would involve "a grave risk which has to be very seriously considered."

And Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., counseled waiting to see what happens and what support the United States can get from the Organization of American States before any decision is made on military intervention in Cuba.

Another Republican — Democrat pair of senators said they favor immediate imposition of full-scale economic boycott as a first step toward bringing down the Castro government.

Sen. Styles Bridges, R-N.H., said he favors a full embargo "around the island of Cuba" to keep Castro from importing more military supplies from Communist countries.

Speaking on a network television program CBS "Washington Conversation," Bridges appeared to be advocating a naval blockade but he did not say so specifically. President Kennedy has indicated his opposition to any such step now.

Bridges added his approval of armed intervention if necessary but did not indicate when he felt this might be.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said "It's my hope that the blockade about is that thing down in South Haven," said Gordon Chambers, father of Margaret.

He was referring to the rape-slaying of Geraldine Williams, 15, last Jan. 11. The girl was walking to a school bus stop from her South Haven home when she was abducted. Her bludgeoned body was found the next day in the basement of an abandoned farmhouse.

Tshombe Arrested In Kasavubu Move To Disarm Troops

COQUILHATVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The central government is determined to disarm Katanga President Moise Tshombe's army and get rid of all his white mercenaries, Foreign Minister Justine Bomboko declared Sunday.

For the first time, the central government explained why it arrested the president of rich Katanga when he tried to walk out of a Congo unity conference here last Wednesday.

The harsh demands made on the vigorous, independent Tshombe made it clear that Congo President Joseph Kasavubu now is determined to act to bring Katanga under central control. The conference also authorized Kasavubu to act against the leftist rebels in neighboring Oriental Province.

Bomboko is, talking with reporters came close to comparing Tshombe with the Katanga leader's old enemy — ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba, who was killed while in the custody of Katanga's army.

"We fought against Lumumba, who wanted to destroy the Congo," Bomboko said. "We will fight everyone who follows Lumumba's example."

Hundreds Search For Missing Girls

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP) — Hundreds of police and volunteers searched Sunday for two young girls as fears for their safety mounted in the face of a recent abduction-slashing.

Margaret Chambers, 12, and her playmate, Carol Gee, 11, both of Rte. 1, Holland, vanished Saturday near a wooded section of a Lake Michigan resort park outside this southwest Michigan community.

"The only thing I can think about is that thing down in South Haven," said Gordon Chambers, father of Margaret.

He was referring to the rape-slaying of Geraldine Williams, 15, last Jan. 11. The girl was walking to a school bus stop from her South Haven home when she was abducted. Her bludgeoned body was found the next day in the basement of an abandoned farmhouse.

90 Pickets Launch Vigil, Fast At CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ninety pacifist-led demonstrators protesting this nation's role in the Cuban invasion began a vigil and hunger strike outside the Central Intelligence Agency headquarters Sunday. They said they plan to make it a two-week, 24-hour-a-day demonstration.

Under sponsorship of the Non-violent Committee for Cuban Independence the group journeyed here by bus and car from New York, rallied briefly at Judiciary Square then set up a moving picket line outside the CIA building at 24th and E streets in northwest Washington.

Only nine will begin the fast, but others may join later, the leaders said.

Cuba Economic Chief Outlines Industrial Plan

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Ernesto "Che" Guevara outlined Sunday an industrial program to put Cuba well on the road to a planned socialist economy.

Speaking publicly for the first time since Cuba was invaded two weeks ago, the economic chief urged a renewed drive toward total state control of industry "while the blood of all the martyrs is still fresh on the land."

In a talk over Cuban TV, he outlined a four-year plan designed to pull Cuba up by its economic bootstraps. The plan, to start next year, is patterned after the system used by Communist countries.

He said Cuba's middle class had forfeited any rights to own private industry by fleeing the country, conspiring against Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime and then returning as invaders.

He said the Cuban state now has control of the principal means of production.

A small, round scar on Guevara's right cheek and a wad of cotton behind his right ear were visible to viewers of the telecast from Havana, monitored here. These recalled reports that Guevara had been wounded, accidentally or otherwise, during the invasion.

Illustrating his talk with economic charts, Guevara said that the first area to be extensively developed under the four-year plan will be the Santiago area of Oriente Province, where he said there are vast mineral resources "which can guarantee 6 years of production at 250,000 tons a year."

He said iron, chromium, sulphur, nickel and cobalt deposits "are immediately exploitable."

Cuba also will use, he said, a Soviet chemical detergent to clean out oil tankers so the same ships can bring Soviet petroleum to Cuba and return with cargoes of Cuban sugar.

Pathet Lao's Offer Raises Truce Hopes

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The rebel regime proposed Sunday a meeting of military leaders on the front north of this capital. This raised hopes here for a cease-fire in Laos.

But strong enemy forces struck at Ban Keun, last large town only 25 miles north of here. Western observers said the sobering question remained whether a cease-fire formula could be worked out between the government and the pro-Communist rebels.

The answer may come Monday when a government officer is scheduled to go out again under a whiteflag in an attempt to contact the Pathet Lao rebels in the area near Vang Khy and get cease-fire talks started. He got no response when he went out on a similar mission Saturday.

But neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma, recognized by the Communist bloc as premier of Laos, announced Sunday he would agree to a military meeting before next Wednesday at Ban Namon, about 15 miles north of Vang Khy and about 35 miles north of here.

Safe Conduct Guaranteed

Capt. Kong Le, rebel military commander, in another broadcast promised safe conduct to Ban Namon. He proposed each side send a delegation of from five to ten persons "to discuss the fixing of a specific date and hour at which a cease-fire should begin, and to discuss rules governing the cease-fire."

It was the first time either Souvanna or the pro-Communist Pathet Lao had suggested a meeting outside the rebel stronghold of Xieng Khouang on the Central Plain, or in Vang Vieng, the royal military headquarters 45 miles north of Vientiane seized by the Pathet Lao last week.

The country around Ban Namon is rebel-controlled. Military men, however, consider much of the area between Ban Namon and Vang Vieng a no-man's land. Some royal troops have penetrated the region.

There were no reports of strong military action Sunday. The attack at Ban Keun came Saturday and the government rushed up reinforcements. Should the town fall, the negotiators farther north would be cut off from Vientiane except by helicopter.

Major Military Threat

But the major military threat was seen along the main north-south road between here and Luang Prabang, the royal capital.

Top government officials were in Luang Prabang for final rites in the cremation of the late king, Sisavang Vong. W. Averell Harriman, roving ambassador for President Kennedy, and Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia, both were there pressing for cease-fire agreement.

Sihanouk has been urging factions to get together, possibly in his capital of Phnom Penh.

In Rangoon, the U.S., British and French ambassadors asked Burmese Premier U Nu to use his good offices to get a cease-fire.

And in Bangkok, SEATO Secretary-General Pote Sarasin said an emergency session of that group's eight-nation council voiced hope that a cease-fire may be worked out in a day or two. Pote declined to say what SEATO may do if the truce does not come.

Muscovites In Festive Mood On Eve Of May Day

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union began May Day celebrations Sunday in a buoyant, bumptious mood broken only by the difficulty of getting food and drink.

Scarlet and gold banners in the streets and joyous newspaper headlines boasted of Yuri Gagarin's feat in orbiting the earth in a space ship.

There was no mention of Francis Gary Powers and his U2, downed a year ago Monday at Sverdlovsk and ushering in an explosive new period of international relations.

Premier Khrushchev flew back from a Black Sea vacation to head the list of dignitaries taking the salute from atop the Lenin-Stalin tomb in Red Square at the gigantic parade climaxing the festivities Monday morning.

There was no hint either in the press or among well informed residents that the parade would produce anything spectacular. There was also no word about the release of Powers from prison or any dramatic new space shot.

But there was an article in Komsomol Pravda saying the Soviets have an astronaut in training for a moon flight. It gave no timetable.

Moscow weather was still cold but green buds were beginning to appear on the trees. Great red banners and posters were set off by huge urns of artificial flowers.

Loud speakers blared popular and patriotic music in the squares and at street corners.

TV cameras, which for the first time will show the festivities directly to western Europe, were set up at strategic locations.

Vatican Holiday

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII appeared at his apartment window Sunday and wished 15,000 persons gathered in St. Peter's Square a happy May Day.

The holiday will be celebrated Monday. For the Roman Catholic Church it is known as "The Feast of St. Joseph the Artisan," established by the late Pope Pius XII to give a Christian aspect to the labor holiday.

Students Arrange For Demonstration At Soviet Embassy

W. Md. College Group Expects 2,000

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP)—A had officially sanctioned the demonstration. But a spokesman said Sunday up to 2,000 students were expected to demonstrate near the Soviet Embassy in Washington Monday.

The demonstration, organized by a student group at Western Maryland College, was timed to coincide with May Day celebrations in Moscow and other Communist capitals.

Anti-Communist student groups from Hood College in Frederick, Md., the University of Maryland, and American University, George Washington University and Georgetown University in Washington were expected to join the Western Maryland marchers.

The students planned strict observance of District of Columbia regulations, and said their demonstration would be confined to an area 500 feet away from the embassy. A spokesman said District police had agreed to escort a student to the embassy to present a letter from the students for Premier Khrushchev.

The letter notes that the demonstration was organized solely on the initiative of the students, "without any prodding" by the U.S. government. The letter also asked Khrushchev to note the contrast between the peaceful American demonstration and the Soviet parade of military might.

The Western Maryland student group said none of the colleges represented at the demonstration

Blow To French Army May Take Years To Heal

ALGIERS (AP)—The French army, heir to proud military traditions, has suffered a blow which may need years to heal, qualified sources said Sunday.

The short-lived Algerian insurrection revealed bitterness and cleavages which have been plaguing the army ever since its collapse before the onslaught of Nazi tanks and dive bombers in 1940.

The arrest of 200 high-ranking officers, the dissolution of some of the army's proudest regiments, and the threat of massive sanctions have created a feeling of despondency among career officers.

Qualified observers say that for some time to come the French army has ceased to exist as a cohesive, efficient fighting force.

What remained in the wake of the four-day uprising was a mass of half a million men commanded by officers torn by second thoughts, conflicting loyalties, personality clashes, and the grim realization that another attempt to keep Algeria French has been lost, they report.

Silence gripped mess halls, offices and officers' quarters. A number of officers refused to shake hands with their colleagues.

High-ranking French government officials who are conducting a sweeping probe into the insurrection say the problem of the army is an extremely grave one, perhaps as grave as when Frenchmen were pitted against Frenchmen during the dark days of World War II.

Red Chinese Facing New Food Shortages

TOKYO (AP)—Red China faces the threat of new calamities less than a year after the worst natural disasters of the century caused severe shortages of food for its 650 million people.

The official New China news agency said Saturday China has been hit by a spring drought in the northeast and east central areas, a series of hailstorms in the southeast and floods in the south.

The Peiping regime already has been forced to go on the world market for food, placing huge orders with Canada and Australia. The New China report said a bitter dry spell persists in coastal Shantung Province in northeast China, where the Yellow River empties into the sea, and neighboring Hebei Province.

Braddock Heights Girl Missing From U. Of Md.

PIKESVILLE, Md. (AP)—State Police said Sunday they have located a 21-year-old Braddock Heights, Md. girl missing from her University of Maryland dormitory since April 22.

Officers identified the missing student as Barbara Gail Rimler. They said her absence was reported to police at the College Park campus April 25.

Timetable To Space

By JOHN BARBOUR
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The script is already written. On Tuesday, an American space pilot is expected to ride a rocket into space.

Here, barring delays and mishaps, are some of the highlights of his tense timetable to space: It is 2 a.m., the day of the shot. He gets up, showers, shaves, breakfasts, is checked over by doctors.

It takes 35 minutes to wire him with special instruments that will report to doctors on earth his physical status in space.

Technicians carefully adjust the instruments at four tattooed marks around the space pilot's heart. Then he dons his space suit.

Time minus 145 minutes—He leaves the astronauts quarters for the 15-minute ride to the waiting rocket.

Time minus 120 minutes—He is given a final briefing.

Time minus 100 minutes—The flight surgeon now reports, "The astronaut is on gentry."

From here he boards the space capsule atop the rocket, is strapped into his seat at the shoulders, hips and knees.

Time minus 75 minutes—His helmet visor is closed. His suit is tested once more for leaks. The space capsule is sealed.

Time minus 55 minutes—The gantry, about 100 feet tall, is rolled back. Now the 83-foot rocket stands alone, a tense human being in its nose.

Time minus 4 minutes—All controls are now in "go" position. Time minus 2 minutes—All communications with the space pilot are now by radio.

Time minus 1 minute—The test conductor now has control of the rocket, the man, the entire shot. Time minus 35 seconds—The commands come quickly now. The space pilot's voice mixes with the busy voices from the blockhouse.

"Periscope okay." Vent valves are checked, fuel brought up to proper pressure. Then: "Ignition. . . Main stage. . . Lift off."

The rocket engines roar into life, spewing flame. Slowly the rocket rises. Then faster. Inside the space pilot strains against pressure six times as strong as gravity that presses him back in his seat.

Every 30 seconds the space pilot now reports the readings on gauges before him, the stresses he is facing.

Time plus 2 minutes, 15 seconds—The space pilot reports, "Standing by for cutoff."

In seconds the Redstone's engine shuts down. The space pilot makes a few adjustments. Then the Redstone and the capsule separate. The rocket, its job done, falls behind.

Three small rockets at the rear of the capsule push it away from the mother rocket. Now, with the flight just over three minutes old, the space pilot begins to control aspects of his flight, maneuvering the capsule in space.

He begins to feel now the beginning of some 5 minutes of weightlessness.

Time plus 4 minutes—The astronaut is now looking at the earth through his periscope, trying to get his bearings visually and trying to control the attitude of the capsule.

Time plus 6 1/2 minutes—The space capsule begins to take its re-entry attitude, preparing to come back to earth, pitching its blunt end toward the earth.

Time plus 7 minutes—Now the feeling of weightlessness begins to leave as the space capsule begins its descent to earth.

Now the force of gravity begins to increase, and the pilot is again straining as the space capsule drives into the blanket of air around the earth and slows.

Time plus 9 1/2 minutes—A small braking parachute is released. A snorkel is opened at 20,000 feet and the earth's air again enters the space capsule.

Time plus 10 minutes—The main parachute opens, and the capsule jerks, then slowly drifts to a landing in the ocean.

The entire trip might take 15 minutes. It carries the space pilot on a trip 115 miles high and 290 miles long.

Philanthropist Dies At Hopkins

BALTIMORE (AP)—Samuel H. Hoffberger, attorney, industrialist, philanthropist and a prominent Maryland Democrat, died today at Johns Hopkins Hospital. He was 72.

He had been a patient at the hospital two weeks, but had been in ill health since 1953. Despite his illness, he attended the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles last summer as a delegate. Hoffberger attended four previous conventions as a Maryland delegate.

Although he never sought elective office or aspired to party leadership, Hoffberger's advice often was heeded in executive sessions and party conclaves. He was advisor to governors, senators, mayors, congressmen and politicians of lesser rank.

He also remained in the background as a philanthropist. Only on rare occasions did he permit his name to appear in print in connection with gifts.

One of these was in 1952, when the Hoffberger Brothers Fund, a corporation established by the family and headed by Hoffberger as president, gave $260,000 to help finance a new science building at Goucher College.

Hit-Run Driver Shatters House

OLNEY, Md. (AP)—Charles M. Brown's home here was struck by a hit-and-run motorist. Montgomery County police reported an automobile swerved off Maryland 97 at Olney Saturday, traveled some 100 feet between trees and struck Brown's house. The driver backed away and disappeared.

Brown still is trying to figure out how the driver managed to get away after such an impact. He said a wide section of stone foundation was pushed under the house, along with a wide expanse of shattered asbestos shingle.

Uneasy Calm Follows Riots By Collegians

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Hundreds of peace officers breathed sighs of relief Sunday as an uneasy calm settled over this resort city after two nights of rioting by college-age youths.

Texas Rangers and officers from neighboring Houston rushed here after the situation got out of hand Friday night.

Police said the trouble started in fights along the beach front as 3,000 college students from Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana swarmed here for Splash Day, the opening of the Galveston beach season.

More than 600 youths were arrested as officers waded into rock chunking youths. Several shots were fired but no one was hurt from gunfire. Scores were treated for cuts and bruises.

One death resulted indirectly from the riots, George L. Windheimer, 63, of the Harris County sheriff's office died Saturday night in a two-car crash. He was a reserve officer sent here from Houston to patrol streets.

The major trouble occurred Friday night. More than 500 youths were arrested and fined. Saturday night 150 youths were arrested for gathering in streets and for unlawful assembly.

City officials and several students likened the trouble to an outbreak earlier this month at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Almond Backs Rail Merger

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. released a letter Sunday in which he endorsed the proposed merger of the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Baltimore and Ohio railroads as in "the best interest of my state."

The letter, dated April 28, was addressed to A. E. Perlman, president of the New York Central System.

Almond said he did not go along with the New York Central argument that "the affiliation . . . would be conducive to larger savings which would result from the elimination of duplicate facilities."

"This would, of course, involve the abandonment of tracks, yards and stations," Almond said, "resulting in the elimination of thousands of railroad jobs."

"To my mind, benefits to the general public in these times would not arise out of such a substantial abandonment of railroad facilities and the ultimate displacement of a large number of railroad personnel."

The governor said instead, he saw the merger as the affiliation between a company with "strong resources"—the C&O—and one in "serious financial difficulty."

Allegheny Corp. Control Struggle Nears Climax

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—An armored truck and two special railroad cars headed toward Baltimore Sunday heralding the climax of one of the biggest financial battles in American history.

Aboard the truck was a cargo of votes to be cast Monday in favor of continuing Allan P. Kirby, 68, as chairman of Allegheny Corp., overseer of a $6.7 billion railroad and investment empire.

It also carried the Allegheny stockholders' list and other corporate records.

On the railroad cars were the challenging forces of Texas financier John D. Murchison, 39—also with a big block of proxies. Murchison seeks to unseat Kirby and take over control of Allegheny.

Neither side was anywhere near a clear cut winner as they awaited the annual meeting of stockholders in a hotel ballroom here.

It will be the uncommitted stockholders, some 500 to 1,000 of whom are expected to show up, who will decide the battle of the financial titans since neither Kirby nor Murchison could lay claim to the 4,922,486 shares needed to win.

Although the decision was at hand, it may take days—possibly even a week or two—to unravel the result which is expected to be close.

Platoons of high-priced lawyers from New York, Baltimore and Texas were on hand to watch every step of the count and plot legal strategy. A dozen public relations men counseled the opposing camps.

Despite its huge financial power, Allegheny, a holding company, has only 10 persons on its payroll, including secretaries.

The groundwork for the battle of millionaires was laid last year when Kirby and Murchison, once allies, fell to quarreling over management and investment policies.

The two men and their allies now have more than $70 million between them tied up in Allegheny stock.

Kirby, with a fortune built on inherited Woolworth variety store wealth, is estimated to be worth close to $300 million.

Murchison and his brother Clint W. Jr., 37, have amassed an estimated $150 million through a partnership. Murchison Bros. started for them 19 years ago by their father, Clint Sr., fabulous Texas oilman.

Four Die In Maryland Traffic Accidents

By The Associated Press
Four persons died during the weekend as a result of traffic accidents in Maryland, and one state resident died in a fire at her home.

The highway accidents brought the statewide death toll for the year to 107, compared with 179 for the same period a year ago.

Robert J. Dietz, 22, a New Jersey student at Potomac State College in Keyser, W. Va., was killed Saturday when the car in which he was a passenger went out of control on Martin's Mountain near Cumberland. Police said all four occupants of the death car were students at the West Virginia college. Two were hospitalized.

O'Dell B. Henson, 20, and Walter Rhem, 26, both of Baltimore, died earlier Saturday after the cars they were driving collided on Reisterstown Road, Baltimore. Police said Henson's car ran into the traffic divider and skidded across into the opposite lane, where it hit the Rhem vehicle. Both men died several hours after the accident at Lutheran Hospital.

William T. Caldwell, 64, of St. Michaels in Talbot County, died Saturday in Easton Memorial Hospital as a result of injuries he suffered in a collision with a truck Friday.

Police identified the truck driver as 43-year-old Andrew W. Milbourne of St. Michaels, and said he had been charged with manslaughter. The accident happened on Maryland 33 just west of Easton as the truck was turning off the road. Caldwell's two young daughters were hospitalized. A third passenger in the Caldwell car, Harrison Palmer of McDaniel, Md., was reported in serious condition.

Mary Elizabeth Brawner, a 20-year-old Prince Georges County girl, died Saturday in a fire at her family's Chapel Hill, Md. home. Firemen said the blaze, which destroyed the second floor of the two-story house, apparently was started by a cigarette.

Miss Brawner was trapped in her bedroom. Four other adults and four children living in the house escaped.

Hagerstown Stadium Structure Burns

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—A fire that burned six hours Saturday night destroyed the grandstands, radio tower and dressing room of the Municipal Stadium here.

Firemen were still busy Sunday putting out small blazes around the remains of the old frame structure. The stadium, which had a capacity of about 2,400, had been used only for sand-lot games in recent years. It was owned by the city of Hagerstown. Cause of the fire was not determined.

The flags of four nations—France, Spain, the Confederate States and the United States—have flown over the city of New Orleans.

Week's Tour To Promote State Begins

BALTIMORE (AP)—More than 40 travel editors and counselors visited here Sunday to kick off a week-long Maryland tour designed to attract tourists to the state.

Earle R. Poorbaugh, tour director for the Department of Economic Development, said the tour is especially designed to foster interest in tourists "within a day's driving time of Maryland."

The touring group represents all neighboring states plus New York, Connecticut, Tennessee, Texas, Canada and Germany.

Another purpose of the tour is to show Maryland's links with the Civil War and promote travel here during the Civil War Centennial.

The week's schedule includes:

Monday—Visit Wye Oak, Wye Church, Wye House, Tighman's Island; overnight in Easton.

Tuesday—Board the state yacht, Governor Tawes, to meet the governor; tour St. Mary's County; overnight in Lexington Park.

Wednesday—Visit Annapolis, State House, Naval Academy; dinner in Annapolis; overnight in Silver Spring.

Thursday—Visit Enchanted Forest, Ellicott City; Gathland State Park, Antietam National Battlefield; overnight in Hagerstown.

Friday—Tour Cumberland, Deep Creek Lake; overnight in Cumberland.

Saturday—Return to Baltimore.

Harbor Tunnel Tolls Increase

BALTIMORE (AP)—Higher tolls for the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel go into effect Monday.

The toll for single-trip passenger cars will be increased from 40 to 50 cents. The 25-cent commuter rate, and all other fees, will remain unchanged.

The State Roads Commission ordered the 10-cent toll boost after a study by New York traffic engineering consultants.

Another change will go into effect July 1, when passenger car tolls on Chesapeake Bay Bridge will be reduced to a flat $1 for a single trip, and from 45 cents to 35 cents for commuters. Other rates will remain unchanged.

The current single-trip toll on the bridge is $1.25 for car and driver, and 25 cents extra for vehicles carrying passengers.

The roads commission said the changes on the two facilities would balance each other in terms of revenue. The revenues from all Maryland toll facilities are under one bond issue.

Civil Air Patrol is a civilian auxiliary of the U. S. Air Force, under the Continental Air Command, and has been located on Ellington Air Force Base, Tex., since August, 1959.

Maryland News In Brief

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—State checks totaling $481,813 have been mailed to 22 counties and Baltimore City as their share of liquor taxes collected for the third quarter of this fiscal year.

The revenue checks were greater than those mailed for the third quarter last year in all counties except Baltimore, Caroline, Cecil, Dorchester, Frederick, Howard, Kent, Queen Annes, St. Marys, Talbot, Washington and Wicomico. Liquor isn't sold in Garrett.

Francis S. Filbey, president of the Baltimore Council of AFL-CIO, contrasted the reaction of the public to February's anti-trust convictions of electrical executives with the "hue and cry" that accompanied the AFL-CIO's expulsion of the Teamsters Union in 1957.

Filbey made his remarks over the weekend on the heels of a movement among the city's unions to reinstate the Teamsters.

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Edward L. Keyser Sr. of Baltimore was elected great sachem of the Great Council of Maryland, Improved Order of Red Men, Saturday, and Mrs. Nellie Knill of Frederick was named great Pocahontas of a sister organization, the Degree of Pocahontas.

Other officers elected at the close of the three-day meetings included George S. McMillan of Williamsport, Earl William Conn of Westernport, C. Edward Neff of Fruitland, L. Dewey Warrenfeltz of Boonsboro, Raymond M. Mummet of Williamsport and Mrs. Mary Leopold of Brunswick.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Maryland's highest court has been asked to settle a dispute between a 14-year-old atheist and the Baltimore school board.

The boy, William J. Murray III, and his mother will ask the Court of Appeals to overthrow a Baltimore Superior Court order dismissing their request for a ban on Bible reading in city schools.

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—The three founders of the Lakewood Country Club near here have filed a motion in District Court asking for removal of Vinton E. Lee, court-appointed conservator to control the club's financial operations.

Lee, a Washington accountant, had been named at the request of some club members after the funds ran out and construction of the club stopped.

The founders, Troy V. Post Jr., Bill Allen and Leroy W. Pickett, claimed in their motion that Lee is "biased against them."

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Baltimore labor leader has complained that the public doesn't react as violently to news of corruption in business as it does to labor union scandals.

CAMP PICKETT, Va. (AP)—A Ft. Meade, Md. soldier whose armored unit was participating in maneuvers here was killed Saturday when the turret of the light tank he was driving swung around suddenly and crushed him.

An Army spokesman at Ft. Meade, identified the victim as Spec. 4 Carl R. Barker, 20, of Fresno, Ohio. Barker's unit, the First Armored Squadron of the Third Armored Cavalry at Ft. Meade is having a six-week field exercise at Camp Pickett.

Authorities said it had not been determined how the accident happened. They said Barker's head might have stuck up through the driver's hatch at the moment the electrically powered turret was being turned. The soldier was pronounced dead on arrival at the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond.

Barker is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland H. Barker of Fresno, Ohio.

Finan Names Aide

BALTIMORE (AP)—Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan has announced the appointment of James P. Garland, a Baltimore attorney, as an assistant.

Garland, a graduate of Villanova University, will succeed Miss Mary Arabian, the only woman named to the new Baltimore Municipal Court.

Now you can check up on your financial health, just as you check up on your physical health. This service is more than an interview. It is a review every father should have regularly—whether he needs insurance or not.

EVERY YEAR, millions of fathers have health check-ups. Yet, millions of fathers don't check up on their family's financial health.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company now offers a service which lets you do just that: The Family Security Check-Up. It is a service which can bring you new information and correct mistakes. It lets you make sure you've planned your family's future with your head as well as your heart.

What you could lose without one

Our experience with millions of families shows there are mistakes, oversights, gaps in the average man's financial security program. Too much of it is haphazard. Too much of it is left to chance. It lacks a plan or too often it simply falls behind the times. For example—

You can unintentionally "disinherit" a child, in effect, if you have overlooked naming him among your beneficiaries.

Social Security benefits for your wife and your children may not dovetail efficiently with your pension or insurance programs.

As much as 20% more actual cash can be provided depending upon the mode of payment selected.

A guaranteed income—until your youngest child is grown up—can be provided even if you are a man with a moderate income.

Times change; many changes can affect your plans. Changes in income, occupation, in children's ages, in the cost of living—all these mean that a father should have a financial check-up regularly. And he should also make sure he has taken advantage of the most modern insurance provisions and benefits.

More than an interview—a service

Metropolitan, the company you look to for authoritative information on physical health, offers a way to check up on your family's financial health.

You'll see, below, all the steps you go through to satisfy yourself that the provisions you have made for your family will do what you intend.

Metropolitan representatives have been trained in Metropolitan's own schools and are qualified by solid experience to bring you this service. They are equipped with businesslike charts and tables that show you exactly where you stand.

Whether you need insurance or not, this service makes sense. Remember, Metropolitan is as local as Main Street . . . as close as your phone. Call your Metropolitan man today.

There is no obligation—except to those you love.

WHAT IT IS AND WHAT IT DOES FOR YOU

With the help of your Metropolitan man—

1. You check the facts: your Social Security, your home, your life insurance, your pension plan, your savings and other assets. You may be surprised to learn how much you're worth.
2. You weigh your responsibilities: mortgage or rent payments, education, retirement, accident and sickness emergencies; how much it would cost your family to live without you.
3. You learn where you stand. You determine your weak and strong points . . . whether the provisions you have made for your family will do what you intend. You get the facts in front of you.
4. You plan for the future. Based on these facts, you decide what action, if any, may be needed to give you a family security plan, tailor-made to your own needs and ambitions—one which makes good sense for you.

Student Dies In Auto Crash

A Potomac State College athlete was killed, and three other college students injured, when the car in which they were traveling skidded on a sharp curve on Martins Mountain and smashed into a stone embankment yesterday afternoon.

Victim of the accident was Robert James Deitz, 22, of 9 Fountain Avenue, Matawan, N.J., who was pronounced dead on arrival at Sacred Heart Hospital. His was the second death to be recorded so far this year on Allegheny county highways.

Deitz was a passenger in the right rear seat of a 1960 model four-door sedan operated by Kurt James Lindstrom, 21, of 5 West View Road, West Orange, N.J.

Other passengers were Robert Kennedy, 21, who was in the left rear seat, and John Edward Wade, who was sitting in the front seat with Lindstrom. Kennedy and

Two Killed In Crash Near Davis

Two young Tucker County, W. Va., men, one of them a grandson of a Cresaptown couple, were killed Friday night in a two-car accident on West Virginia Route 32 near Davis at the east end of Canaan Valley.

Victims of the accident were William Harvey White, 20, and Paul Lewis Cross, 31, both of Hambleton. White was a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Clay White, Cresaptown.

The two young men were passengers in a car operated by Woodrow J. Roy, 22, of Parsons, which was traveling east on the highway when it sideswiped an oncoming auto driven by J. L. Simmons, of Bemis, near Elkins. Roy was admitted to Davis Memorial Hospital, Elkins, with minor injuries. Attaches report him as "getting along fine." Simmons was not injured in the mishap.

Born in Tucker County, White was a son of Mrs. Alice (Collett) White, Hambleton, and the late Forrest White.

Surviving, besides his mother and grandparents, are six brothers, Robert C. White, Elkins, and Dennis R. Kenneth A., David S., Harold E. and Roger L. White, all at home, and three sisters, Mrs. Margaret A. Mick, Stow, Ohio, and the Misses Nelda M. and Pamela L. White, both at home.

The body is at the Greenleaf Funeral Home, Parsons, where friends will be received after 4 p.m. today. Services will be conducted Tuesday at 2 p.m. at Hambleton Methodist Church by Rev. James Mitchem and interment will be in the Collett Cemetery, Hambleton.

Cross was born in Parsons, a son of Howard and Bessie J. (Raines) Cross, Hambleton. Employed by the U.S. Forestry Service, he was a veteran of the Korean War and held membership in Parsons Lodge, L.O.O. Moose.

Surviving, besides his parents, are two brothers, Robert Cross, St. George, and Ralph Cross, New York City, and six sisters, Mrs. Lawrence Bates, Hendricks; Mrs. Keith Holsberry, Mill Creek, W. Va.; Mrs. George Comeau, Plattsburg, N.Y.; Mrs. Ralph Wade, Canton, Ohio; Mrs. George Taylor, St. Albans, W. Va.; and Miss Helen Cross, Hambleton.

The body is at the Greenleaf Funeral Home. Services will be conducted there today at 2 p.m. by Rev. Rankin Roach and Rev. Mr. Mitchem. Interment will be in Collett Cemetery.

Shop Teachers

ployment problem is to be solved and the demand for craftsmen filled.

County shop teachers have held conferences and discussed their challenge in detail.

Seek More Emphasis

They believe a number of policies must be established. They believe that greater emphasis must be placed upon developing skills in each individual. They also believe that boys, and sometimes girls of high school ages, should be encouraged to develop latent skills they do not know they possess. They believe that adaptability and job preference tests and the like, usually given in the senior year, should be given in the ninth grade or earlier.

Mr. Alexander's classes, used as an example, have displayed talents this year that surpass any shown in the past. There have been good pieces of work in the past, but this year the volume is higher, because of emphasis on better students and skill development.

Projects and boys who completed them include Edward Norris, a knee-hole desk made of cherry; Merle Saville, a walnut knee-hole desk; James Riley, a walnut gun cabinet; Philip Ketterman, an oak gun cabinet; Wesley Shanholtz and George Miller, walnut coffee tables; James Del Basso, walnut end table and coffee table; Larry Ballou, cedar lined oak chest; Harvey Rhodes, cedar lined walnut chest; Frank White, two matching end tables; Ed Twigg and Amos Mortzfelt, oak telephone seats; Donald Colbert, walnut desk; Robert Blank, room dividers; and Charles Turbin, an oak coffee table.

Mr. Alexander said, "We are instilling in our boys the idea that skill is important in everything worthwhile. We do not content that every boy will be a cabinetmaker or a carpenter. But we do contend that the development of the ability to do perfect work with the hands can lead to success."

One of the big obstacles is an old idea that the blue-collar worker or technician has a less desirable job than a white-collar worker, even if he earns more money. Industry has done little to counteract this.

"We need a revival in the old-fashioned art of stepping back, admiring a finished job, and then being able to say, 'That's the best possible job that I can do.' The schools and the education system can meet this challenge. The shop men want to meet it. But there are some adjustments in ideas and thinking and policies that must be made at all levels, before we can meet the challenge that is facing the whole nation in the sixties."

Two Brothers Drown While Trout Fishing

Two brothers, both of Clarksburg, W. Va., drowned Saturday in the North Fork of the South Branch of the Potomac River where they had gone for the opening of West Virginia's trout season.

The victims of the accident were identified as Francis M. Dolan, 45, and his 32-year-old brother, Philip J. Dolan. A third brother, John Dolan, 46, of Canton, Ohio, and another member of the fishing party, Jay Sutton, Clarksburg, were involved in the mishap, but were saved.

Cpl. H. H. Meadows, of the Franklin detachment of West Virginia State Police, said the men had checked into the Yokum Motel, near Mouth of Seneca, and were out at daybreak for the start of trout season.

The drowning took place about a mile north of Mouth of Seneca, just off West Virginia Route 28, and in Pendleton County. The men were each wearing several pairs of trousers and extra jackets and sweaters because of the cold temperature, Cpl. Meadows said.

Authorities were told that the oldest Dolan fell out of the boat into the swift and cold water of the river. Philip dove in to assist him, with the other brother and Sutton following him into the stream. All were swept downstream in water that had become swift and turbulent as a result of recent rains.

Other fishermen rescued John Dolan and Sutton, who were treated for exposure at Grant County Memorial Hospital, Petersburg. The bodies of the two brothers were recovered not long after they had disappeared under the surface of the stream, but attempts to revive them were fruitless.

Cpl. Meadows said fishermen tried artificial respiration for about two hours, and that Dr. Luke Eye, Pendleton County coroner, attempted unsuccessfully to revive the men by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

The state trooper said he knew Philip Dolan personally, describing him as a good swimmer. The man was manager of a credit bureau company in Clarksburg, he said.

The brothers were sons of the late John F. and Lena (Miles) Dolan of Clarksburg.

The bodies were to be returned to Clarksburg.

Beck Hospitalized

Fred M. Beck, 412 Pulaski Street, is a patient at Sacred Heart Hospital, where he was admitted Friday.

County PTA Council Will Meet Tonight

The Allegheny County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations will hold its final meeting of the season tonight at 8 o'clock at McCool School.

It will be local presidents' night, and the program will be devoted to a review of work accomplished by presidents of the county's PTA groups. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moreland are in charge of the musical program.

Pike Firemen To Meet

Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Company will meet today at 8:30 p.m. instead of the usual 7:30 p.m. because of daylight time.

Donald Ware, president, asked that all members attend, as plans for the fire company's sponsorship of a circus will be made.

Ann Landers . . . Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: All my married life I've worked hard to help my husband in his business. When he was employed by an ice company I sat home day and night answering the phone and taking guff from the customers. When he was in the moving business and his helper didn't show up I helped him load and unload the truck. Now he has a restaurant and I work as a waitress.

A few months ago he decided to hire a second waitress which I didn't think we could afford. She's a green-eyed red-head and he calls her "Doll." All the work she does you can put in a thimble and still see pretty good. I told him to get rid of her and he said, "She's a drawing card and the customers like her."

It seems to me that people come to a restaurant for good, clean food. The floor show they can get at a night club. Am I right? If you don't agree, please don't answer. I've got plenty of trouble now. — WORKHORSE WIFE

DEAR W. H. W.: If you continue to nag your husband to fire the red-head he may get the crazy idea that you're jealous. Do this instead: Tell her AND him what she is expected to do. If she is so busy being a drawing card that she doesn't do the job, tell your husband that he will have to do it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your apology for "Public Pluckers" was inadequate.

Sure, some people who are friendly will brush dandruff off your shoulders and pick threads off your suit. But the majority of people who have the habit aren't doing it because they want you to look neat. They are self-conscious and can't think of anything to say or do, so they keep themselves busy at your expense.

A friend of mine used to do this much to my annoyance. Her faked solicitude gripped my soul.

I decided to put an end to it. The next time she plucked a nonexistent piece of lint off my dress I placed my hand over hers and lifted it off my shoulder with just enough pressure so that she understood. She never pulled that on me again. — C. B. W.

DEAR ANN: An 18-year-old married "woman" who lives in our apartment had a baby boy two weeks ago. Her husband had to leave to go into service and she asked my husband if we would drive her to the airport to say goodbye. When we knocked on their door she had the two-week-old baby ready to go. I said "Are you kidding? You aren't going to take that infant out to the airport in this rain?" She replied, "I wouldn't think of not having our son see his Daddy off to war."

I told her in the first place there's no war on, that he's putting in his time like many others. And in the second place a two-week-old infant doesn't know what he's looking at.

My husband pulled me aside and told me to mind my own business. Do you think I was out of line? If you say so I'll apologize. — NO MEDDLER

DEAR NO: A two-week-old infant does not belong at an airport in a rainstorm. You should have contented yourself with that point only, however.

No apology is necessary, but in the future let her mother give her motherly advice.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright, 1961, Field Enterprises, Inc.)

Time To Show Our Strength

Why does the United States trail Russia in military strength, nuclear and missile capacity? The answer to this wife-beating type question is simple. The U. S. doesn't lag behind Russia.

Russia sent up the first earth satellite. Her satellites are bigger than ours. These achievements were made possible by Soviet development of a giant rocket engine, superior in thrust to anything we have.

But superiority in rocket thrust does not indicate all-over military superiority. World public opinion has nevertheless, under the influence of Soviet propaganda, jumped to the conclusion that Russia is generally superior.

This is bad. Psychologically and politically, our prestige is diminished. Our diplomatic effectiveness is thereby reduced. And to the extent that Khrushchev believes his own propaganda, the deterrent effect of our nuclear arsenal is lessened.

We have found ways of making powerful nuclear warheads smaller, and the rocket thrust we have is adequate for these lighter but less powerful warheads.

There is no nuclear gap—we presumably have more nuclear weapons than Russia and of greater variety. There is no hard evidence of a missile gap, either, and our over-all military capacity is probably greater than Russia's.

But the world thinks we lack in military potential. People don't realize how little importance rocket thrust, in which Russia leads, has from a military standpoint.

We have lacked vision in not realizing how much our position is harmed when world opinion is misled about relative Soviet power. Neutrals may be drawn closer to Russia, and even allies may have sufficient misgivings that their policies are affected.

It is imperative that the U.S. space program be speeded up, including the Saturn superthrust rocket engine. It is time for the United States to pull a few stunts and convince the world of the truth about its national power.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky
The Experts

The assumption of expertness is inevitable in our current system of education. The word, doctor, only spells out the duration that one has spent in a particular discipline. So there are Doctors of Medicine, Doctors of Philosophy, Doctors of Law, etc.

In the 19th Century, where few could read and titles were important, if a man bore such a title as doctor or professor, he was regarded with awe. Today that is not so because there are too many in too many fields and their expertness has become so minute that often outside their little areas of discipline they are not of great intelligence.

Medical doctors, who are harried men because of the pressure of time and the responsibility for life, sometimes tend to become both pompous and narrow-minded. They revert to the mental attitudes of the witch doctor. Great men are not like that because they realize that anyone can read what they read and that their value is only experience and sensitivity which an individual may or may not possess, depending as much upon his personality as upon his training.

There can be no secrets in any field and the expert needs not only the ability of the technician but also the imagination of genius. This applies in all fields. We are so refining education by a system of majors in college training and specialization in post graduate work, that few know a whole subject and the person who is as well-read in universal literature and history as he is in his specialty is rare, indeed.

The effect of expertness is sometimes markedly dangerous because it gives emphasis to leadership qualities where they do not exist. I know a physician whom I respect for his ability and kindness but who is so devoted to his specialty that when he discusses another subject, he sounds like a child. Although this man has had excellent schooling, his concentration on the minuteness of his particular discipline has so completely absorbed him that he has little thought for anything else.

This same illness appears in the so-called career men in the State Department. The Fourth Floor of the State Department where the Deskmen sit is made up of experts, authorities about specialties in which they become so absorbed as to be part of the other country. For instance, the China experts became so absorbed in Chinese affairs, that they forgot that they are Americans; the Cuban experts were so Cuban in their outlook that it is now obvious that their concern was not for the United States but for some political group in Cuba that they favored.

While their expertness could be an advantage if it were framed properly, it has actually become a nuisance. For instance, Portugal and Spain are important to the maintenance of the international position of the United States. But the doctrinaire Deskmen are anti-colonial and therefore have injected themselves in the question of Angola, just as they have in the destruction of the Dutch, British and French Empires.

Here is a fundamental confusion of policy that has proved to be very costly to the United States but is inevitable when policy is actually made by experts whose task is to gather data not to interpret it. This error in organization has been ever-present in the CIA where evaluation is made at too low a level. Although the CIA rejects responsibility for the Cuban errors, investigation would show that the CIA man in Cuba was pro-Castro whereas his job was to gather accurate information about Cuba and Castro and to transmit it to his superiors for evaluation.

The expert too often suffers from the conceit which comes to one who knows a great deal about a small area — what can be called the specialist of the left-eyebrow, who only too often fails to recognize that his is a part of a problem.

A physician was once very determined about a diagnosis. I knew the patient very well; I asked the physician if he knew him at all. He had been called in as a specialist but a plumber might have been called in, so far as knowledge of the patient was concerned. Most of the illness was psychosomatic. But the great specialist was sure he could tell by tapping and testing. He was too expert to learn.

JFK Action In Virginia Unprecedented In U.S.

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy may have dealt a fatal blow to the movement to obtain money from the federal government to subsidize public schools. He has just demanded that the legislature of a sovereign state—Virginia—be compelled to take punitive action against a single county for failing to open its schools or else abandon the whole public-school system throughout the state. In view of this development, will Congress now take a chance and appropriate money that gives a bureau in Washington potential power over the operation of the public schools throughout the United States?

To tell a state how it must appropriate its funds, how it shall set up its own system of education, and what steps it must take to satisfy the federal government's demand is unprecedented in American history. Yet this, in effect, is the authority sought by the Department of Justice, with the approval of the President, in applying to a federal court for an order against the State of Virginia.

The step is far-reaching. It could mean that in the future the federal government could even tell a state it must have a uniform system of government applying to every county or city. It so happens that the State of Virginia permits its counties and independent cities to adopt, as they choose, various forms of executive management or control by boards of supervisors elected by the people. But, under the theory just applied by the U.S. Department of Justice, the counties and municipalities would not be permitted to have their own forms of local government, but would have to adopt a system uniform throughout the state. If any county or city deviated, it would be in danger of being compelled to accept an order of the federal government in Washington served upon the state through the courts.

This doctrine is, of course, based upon the concept of the fourteenth amendment which the Supreme Court of the United States proclaimed in its "desegregation" decisions in 1954. The point was made then that "equal protection of the laws" means equal application of state laws to children attending public schools. But there is nothing in the fourteenth amendment or anywhere else in the constitution which says that the federal government may tell a state it cannot provide funds to keep its public schools open in 97 counties and 32 independent cities because a single county happens to close such schools. This is an obvious form of punitive action that can readily be repeated by an executive order directing any state which accepts federal funds to operate all its schools according to standards laid down by a federal bureau.

For months now, the lobbyists for federal aid to education and the politicians who hope to get votes through promised increases in teachers' salaries have been denying that any form of federal control of education would be involved in current proposals for financial aid to state schools. But now it turns out that, without any specific right granted through existing law, an executive order could be issued — or a court de-

Pearson Column Causes Uproar In Senate Space Committee Session

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper rushed into the closed-door session of the Senate Space Committee the other day a bit late. In his hand was a Drew Pearson column, and the Senator from Iowa had blood in his eye.

"Here is a column by Drew Pearson saying the Russians sent men into space ahead of Gagarin. He names names and tells just who the Russians sent up. CIA says this isn't so. What about it?"

Dr. Herbert Scoville, the space expert for Central Intelligence, was testifying before the Space Committee when Hickenlooper broke in. He looked surprised. So did other members of the committee. Hickenlooper seemed quite indignant. So was Sen. Tom Dodd, Democrat, of Connecticut, whom this writer has described as the "Democratic Joe McCarthy."

"Pearson is a congenital liar," said Dodd. "Every president in the White House has denounced him. I wouldn't believe a word he says."

Sen. Bob Kerr of Oklahoma, chairman, got impatient and tried to change the subject.

But Senator Hickenlooper was not satisfied. He emphasized that the Pearson column had given the names of the Russian Astronauts and the approximate dates in which they had attempted their space flights.

Dr. Scoville, when pressed by Hickenlooper for an explanation of the conflict between the Pearson column and the CIA's information, maintained that Yuri Gagarin had been the first Russian in space.

At one point Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, Republican, complained that the discussion involved security and ought not to be talked about in haphazard fashion. Wiley also complained that he couldn't hear.

Louder, Please!

"Get closer to the microphone," he told Dr. Scoville. "I can't hear you."

"All the microphones are turned off for security reasons," said one of the committee clerks.

Senator Wiley was moved up closer to Dr. Scoville so he could hear.

"Unfortunately," said Sen. Steve Young of Ohio, "I haven't read the article. What troubles me is that the CIA has been making mistakes. Here are some definite assertions by Pearson. There must be some basis for these assertions. Do you say that the Soviet Union never, preceding the Gagarin flight, put a man in space?"

Dr. Scoville repeated that Gagarin was the first space man. Young asked whether others at the CIA might have different information. Scoville insisted that they would testify as he had.

Senator Hickenlooper continued to pursue the subject. He indicated that something ought to be done about Pearson. Finally, Senator Magnuson of Washington entered the discussion, pointing out that the Pearson article was somewhat speculative and did not report as an absolute fact that other Russians had earlier been launched into space.

"Isn't it possible that some attempts were made by the Russians to put a man into space prior to Gagarin's flight?" asked Senator Kerr.

"Yes, it's possible," replied Dr. Scoville.

"Well, isn't that what this article says?" concluded Kerr.

Not In Orbit

What Dr. Scoville apparently didn't understand and what Senator Hickenlooper didn't make clear was that the column in question (April 21), stated that the Russians were reported to have sent three men straight up on rocket rides as early as 1957, '58 and '59, but had not put them in orbit.

The first was World War II pilot, Alexis Ladovsky, who went up in a rocket in 1957 to an altitude of 200 miles and disappeared. The next was Terenty Shibirin, who shot up in early 1958 but never came back. The next flight was attempted in January, '59 by Andrei Mitkov. His rocket exploded 20 minutes after take-off.

"None of these were attempts at orbiting around the earth," the column stated. "They were simply rocket rides, such as the first American Astronaut will attempt next month."

There was, therefore, no conflict with Dr. Scoville's statement that Gagarin was the first Russian in orbit—even though Space Committee did spend about 30 minutes over Hickenlooper's consternation.

U. S. Guerrillas — Secretary of Defense McNamara will start developing a deadly guerrilla warfare branch for the Army to equal the Russians. The plan is to develop a big corps of specialists in sabotage, bombings, arson. These picked men in turn will act as units to train guerrilla forces in other countries bordering the Iron and Bamboo curtains. The Strategy is to slip into Communist territory, raising the same kind of havoc that the Reds have been creating in Western nations. It's a bold step to show Moscow that two can play at this kind of game — in the Baltic States, Hungary, and even Russia itself.

Castro's Espionage — A Castro spy is believed to have tipped off Dictator Castro about the invasion. Castro's planes and tanks were waiting for the invaders when they hit the beach. The CIA never told the troops aboard the invasion ship what beach they would land on until just before the landings. Yet, when they got there, they walked right into a trap. Cleverly, Castro let the men embark into landing craft and start putting supplies ashore before he opened up with all he had.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

A short time ago, Mr. Gene Fowler became an obituary notice. The rewrite men at AP and UPI were decently brief. They told how Gene had started, 70 years ago, in Denver, how he migrated to Chicago and New York, the Jerusalem of journalism, of how he had, in time, become a Hearst editor and a writer of books.

The only integral item left out was that Gene Fowler had the heart of a benevolent giant. He loved whole hosts of people, some of whom he never met. Fowler was two generations ahead of me, but, even though we never saw each other, he used to take time out in his California home to write encouraging notes.

His newest book, published after his death, is before me as I write. It is called "Skyline" and it must be said at once that this is not Gene Fowler at his best. It is Mr. Fowler talking to himself about his early days and, like most reminiscences it tends to wander. Still, it tells more about the great newspapers of the 1920's and the great reporters than any other book.

Mr. Fowler was always caught squarely between laughter and tears. When he wrote "The Great Mouthpiece," a book about the chicanery of lawyer William Fallon, it required no intelligence on my part to divine that Fowler was sympathetic to the crooks. Especially if the crooks were hopelessly in love. Sometimes, he wept for them.

"Good Night, Sweet Prince" — the story of Gene's friend, John Barrymore, would cause a block of granite to shed a tear. "Beau James," the biography of Jimmy Walker, still haunts me. And yet they were not sad books. Every other page is loud with ribald laughter.

You be the judge. Let me quote at random from "Skyline": "News is history shot on the wing. The huntmen from the Fourth Estate seek to bag only the peacock or the eagle of the swift day."

"Associate with well-mannered persons and your own manners will improve. Run with decent folk and your own decent instincts will be strengthened. Keep the company of bums and you will become a bum. But hang around with rich people and you will end up by picking up the tab and dying broke."

He quotes a note found on Bat Masterson's desk when he died in 1921. "There are many in this old world of ours who hold that things break about even for all of us. I have observed for example that we all get about the same amount of ice. The rich get it in the summertime and the poor get it in winter."

Fowler quotes a lot from Damon Runyon. Mr. Runyon was his Denver antecedent and, sometimes, Fowler's hero. "Without luck," said Runyon: "a reporter is as out of place as a doornail in a tomb." He also said that the most courageous thing in New York is a blade of grass. Describing a card sharp, Runyon said: "If you give him a box of soda crackers, he can deal you four queens."

One of the richest paragraphs is this: "Common sense as well as my fast-growing reportorial experience, persuaded me that life is an ordeal. The way one meets it marks the size and meaning of a man. Some meet it with pious resignation, others with philosophical stoicism, still others with a desperation which finds the wayfarer somewhere between the poles of terror and heroism."

"If life be a tragedy, it is touched with mystery and grandeur. No cynic has the moral right or the special wisdom to contend that it is in vain we live; or to hold humanity in contempt and cast stones of mockery among the footsore pilgrims. If, in my bare-branched years, I still have some sap left, it is because I learned to make a friend of loneliness."

Then there are the little quotes: "The beard was parted in the middle, and fluttered like the lace curtains of a rectory window." "Our love affair had gone the way of lilacs kept too long in the vase." "In a saloon! "There we applied silver polish to the linings of all our clouds."

Fowler was a great reporter and a great editor. Those adjectives are not abused. When he was managing editor of Hearst's New York American, Fowler used to stand in the doorway of his office playing a mandolin. He played little tunes as he watched his city desk and his writers.

Once, he fired Walter Davenport for describing a white horse in a suffragette parade as "dappled gray." Davenport was hired back after he explained that he had covered the parade through a tavern window which was covered with fly specks.

Gene Fowler said that the most difficult thing in life is that it is filled with too many goodbyes. So I shall not say farewell to him. He is alive forever in thousands of bright pages of words. Instead, I shall quote one of his best lines: "Love and memory last, and will so endure till the game is called because of darkness."

Mothers Benefit In Rooming-In Baby Plan

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

An Australian obstetrician was passing through Chicago and asked to see the obstetrics department of the Evanston Hospital association. After visiting the delivery rooms and modified rooming-in plan, he remarked that it was one of the best designed units he had seen in his travels.

Dr. David N. Danforth, head of the department, said the unit was constructed specifically for rooming-in, an arrangement by which the baby is kept near the mother in an adjoining nursery that is separated only by glass. The obstetrics department takes up three floors of the hospital and has its own elevator.

The labor and delivery rooms are on the first floor, near the main entrance. The baby remains in the general nursing area for 12 to 24 hours. Thereafter, he is brought to the individual nursery adjoining the mother's room. Here she observes the technique used in the care of the baby during the next 24 hours. Later, she can participate in caring for the child to whatever extent she wishes. This is done with the assistance of the nurse who is assigned to the unit and has full responsibility for the care of the infant.

Some mothers take an active role in the management of the baby, whereas others prefer to rest and watch through the partition. The mother of a first child is most eager to learn but those who have had several children tend to behave like old hands and take it easy.

Meanwhile, the nurse continues to teach and the mother benefits by having the opportunity to learn by example under precept guidance. She masters techniques that will be used at home in caring for her baby. According to Dr. Danforth, the educational aspect of the program is the most important part of the plan. In addition, mothers are introduced to the many facets of the personality of her child.

Isolating the baby in his own nursery has another advantage. It is the safest possible environment for him and minimizes the chances of catching a cold or other infections.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A poignant memoir of Sir Cedric Hardwicke concerns the evening that Ellen Terry, then close to 80, elected to have another go at the demanding role of Portia in "The Merchant of Venice."

When the time came for her to deliver the familiar "quality of mercy is not strained" speech, poor Miss Terry's face suddenly blanched. She cudgeled her memory in vain for a moment, then moved down to the footlights and said forlornly, "I am a very silly old lady—and I cannot remember what I have to say."

Members of the audience shouted the lines to her, Miss Terry smiled her thanks — and the show went on.

In Palm Beach, a socialite told a bridge columnist quite seriously, "My wife loves the game of bridge passionately. It gives her something to occupy her mind while she's talking!"

Flintstone Tops Frostburg, Caps 19-Game Loss String

Jim Fletcher Bags 6-4 Win For Farmers

Champs' Ed Parsons Fans 16; Hyndman, Moorefield Win

Manager Charley Doyle's Flintstone Farmers broke a two-year losing streak in the Pen-Mar Baseball League by upsetting the Frostburg Merchants yesterday at Flintstone by the score of 6-4.

Barrelville's Old Exports chalked up their second straight win of the campaign at the expense of Mt. Savage, 5-1, Moorefield edged the Salisbury Cardinals in Pennsylvania by the score of 3-2, and the Hyndman Merchants, making their initial start of the campaign, turned back Lonaconing to the tune of 6-4 in other league games staged on Sunday.

Kenny Lough started the Farmers on the way to their first win since June 12, 1960, when he tripped with two aboard during a three-run outburst in the opening stanza. The Farmers added two more tallies in the third and one in the fourth.

Jim Fletcher Winner

Jim Fletcher went the route for Flintstone, yielded 10 hits, struck out three and passed one batter to register his first win in two years. Last year he was 0-6.

Allen Stevenson, who started on the mound for Frostburg, and was relieved in the 6th by Ralph Peace, was tagged with the loss. Peace struck out six batters in the last three innings and hurled shutout ball.

Ray Redinger rapped a double and two singles in four trips and John Price smashed a triple and single in four at bats to spark the Flintstone hitters. Jim Willett hit safely thrice and Gene Zumpano and Fred Schindler added two more blows each for Frostburg.

Shortstop Ray Redinger turned in the fielding gem with an over-the-shoulder catch of a hit to left field.

Parsons Strikes Out 16

Ed Parsons turned in a 4-hit pitching performance and mowed down 16 via the strikeout route in the victory scored by Barrelville's defending champions over Mt. Savage which dropped its second game in a row.

Mt. Savage trailed 2-1 until the 7th inning when Clarence "Pooch" Lewis assured the champs victory when he tripped with the bases loaded. Jesse Markley, former Barrelville pitcher, went all the way for the Old Germans and absorbed the loss. He was nicked for seven blows, including a triple and single by Lewis and a two-bagger and single by Ronnie Neuberger, whiffed six and issued two walks.

Pay Often, Steve Faulkner, Rodney Johnson and Markley accounted for the Mt. Savage hits, all singles.

Keller Bats In Three Runs

Bob Keller knocked in all of Moorefield's runs as the West Virginians nosed out Salisbury. Keller and Barr accounted for the five hits credited to the winners. Keller smacked a double and two singles while Barr had two bingles to his credit.

Harold Mongold of Moorefield scattered eight safeties, issued three bases on balls and whiffed an even dozen Cardinals as he made his season record 1-1. Robert Keister, Salisbury southpaw (1-1) fanned nine and gave up four passes.

Junie Perry obtained two of Salisbury's eight blows, one a two-bagger.

Keller's third hit of the game in the 8th frame broke a 2-2 deadlock and followed Barr's single and Bob Wilson's sacrifice.

Charley Rice Victor

Hyndman made its first start as a winning one under its new manager Lou Hite.

Charley Rice, although nicked for 10 safeties, kept them well spaced, fanned three, walked two and hit one batter, Rich Cutler, who started on the hill for 'Coney, and was supplanted by Fazenbaker in the fifth, was charged with the loss.

Dr. John A. Topper threw out the first ball and Explorer Scout Troop No. 60 was in charge of flag raising exercises preceding the game.

Bosley and Ray Morgari shared four of Hyndman's nine safeties. Everett Spiker and Bob Mundeno had two hits each and "Ike" Love drove in a run with a pinch double for 'Coney in the ninth inning.

Trailing 3-1, Hyndman tied the score with two in the fourth by coupling three bases on balls with a sacrifice and single and sewed up the decision by scoring three in the fifth on hits by Clites Lehman, Bosley and Morgan.

Vohn Lehman played a bangup game at third base for Hyndman, handing nine chances without a slipup.

Bosox Win Over Tribe, 4-2, Lose Nightcap, 10-1

CLEVELAND (AP)—Vic Wertz blasted a two-run homer in the ninth inning to give the Boston Red Sox a 4-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians in the opener of a doubleheader Sunday. But the Indians rolled in the second game behind Wynn Hawkins neat five-hitter, only the second complete game Cleveland has had this season. Tito Francona, with three hits, including a three-run homer, led the attack. John Romano also homered for the tribe.

Hawkins gave up two walks and struck out five. John Temple, with a pair of hits in the opener and an eighth inning double in the second game, stretched his hitting streak through all 16 Cleveland games played this season.

The first game was a pitching duel between winner Bill Monbouquette (1-3) and Cleveland's Gary Bell for eight innings. Wertz homered, following a walk to rookie Carl Yastrzemski, decided in the 10th.

Purkey Tames Bucs, 4-2, After Reds Lose, 6-3

Pirates Rough Up Hook In Opener

CINCINNATI (AP)—Veteran Bob Purkey threw a masterful six-hitter Sunday that gave Cincinnati's Reds their first victory in nine games, 4-2 over Pittsburgh, in the second game of a doubleheader.

The Pirates put on a barrage of extra base hits winning the opener, 6-3.

Young Jay Hook was roughed up in the opener and left in the fifth after a four-hit barrage gave the lead to Pittsburgh.

With one out in the ninth inning of the nightcap, Dick Stuart rammed a double to left, but Purkey got Roberto Clemente and Don Hoak on easy outs.

Purkey also contributed at the plate. His sacrifices twice set up Chico Cardenas to hit scoring singles. In the fifth, Purkey put down a perfect bunt that scored Gordie Coleman.

Gentile, Triandos, Hansen Homers Sink Detroit, 4-2

Orioles Tie Major Record; Tigers Cop Opening Game, 8-2

DETROIT (AP)—Jim Gentile, Gus Triandos and Ron Hansen of the Baltimore Orioles hit successive home runs Sunday to tie a major league record and propel the Orioles to a 4-2 triumph over Detroit. The Tigers won the opening game of the doubleheader 8-2.

All the blows were hit off Paul Foytack, who seemed well on his way to victory in his first start of the season until Gentile started the home run barrage.

Foytack had yielded only one hit and had faced only 19 batters—one over the minimum—through six innings. Brooks Robinson singled with one out and Gentile lashed his home run off the light tower over the third deck at Tiger Stadium.

Triandos followed with a line drive into the upper seats in left field and Hansen hit his into the lower deck in left.

The record for three successive home runs in one inning is shared by many clubs.

The flurry gave Skinny Brown his first victory of the season. He allowed only four hits, including Norm Cash's third homer. Al Kaline scored Detroit's other run, racing all the way from first base on Cash's single in the seventh.

The split kept the Tigers in first place, one game ahead of the New York Yankees, who split with Washington.

The Tigers needed late firepower to win the opener. They had only two singles off Steve Barber until the seventh inning when they put together three singles, a walk and a sacrifice fly for three runs.

Five base hits, two Baltimore errors and a wild pitch produced five Tiger runs in the eighth off Barber and Jack Fisher.

Walt Dropo homered for Baltimore and Jerry Adair drove in the other run with a single, both runs coming off starter Don Mossi, who lasted five innings. Phil Regan gained his first major league triumph with two innings of shutout relief pitching. Hank Aguirre finished up.

Large Turnout In Lonaconing Voting Seen

Three Candidates Vie For Mayor

LONAICONING—A large turnout of town voters is anticipated between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. tomorrow at the City Hall when a mayor and four councilmen will be elected for two-year terms.

The incumbent mayor, Robert D. Peebles, and a former mayor, Virgil Alexander, will be pitted against each other in a three-way contest in which Burton Smith also is a candidate.

Mayor Peebles has been a town official for seven years. From 1947 until 1951 he served as a councilman. Then in May 1958 he was appointed street commissioner to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Douglas Waddell. He was elected mayor two years ago.

Mr. Alexander was elected mayor three times during the 1950s but had to resign the position during the third term because of ill health. He is attempting a political comeback now that he has regained his health. Only last Friday night he was shot in the back by a stray .22 calibre bullet and was confined in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, until Saturday night. Two Lonaconing area youths will be tried in Cumberland today before Juvenile Court Magistrate Louis Fatkin as delinquent minors.

As street commissioner in 1958 and 1959, Mr. Peebles was in charge of the resurfacing of Castle Hill and the widening of Scotch Hill at the First Presbyterian Church intersection. Park Place was resurfaced and George's Creek was dredged in the corporate limits, Mayor Peebles added.

An indebtedness of $11,800 will be paid off by the end of the fiscal year on June 30, 1961, the mayor stated. Improvements in the interest of public safety and health include the installation of guard railing on Robbin Street, High Street, Dudley Street, Jackson Hill Road and an additional fire hydrant on High Street, all completed within the past year.

There are seven candidates for the four positions as councilmen. They include James Berry, Dewey Burns, Robert T. "Jake" Hadley, Nelson Humes, Harold W. Moyer, Alex E. Patton and Benjamin E. Zarger. Mr. Berry and Mr. Zarger are incumbents.

Election judges will be Glenn Ritchie, Alex Bogie Sr., Mrs. Gladys Brown and Peter Holshey. Voting machines have been borrowed from the County Board of Election Supervisors for tomorrow's election. This community was the first one in Allegany County to use voting machines. Their first use was during a special councilmanic election in the fall of 1955.

Wilson Is Named 'Fireman Of Year' At Westernport

WESTERNPORT — Potomac Fire Company 2 has selected Harold Wilson as "Fireman of the Year" for outstanding services.

Wilson, manager of the Potomac Club which the company operates, was presented a trophy at the unit's annual dinner in the parish hall of St. James Episcopal Church. Last year's winner was Chief Paul Michael.

Robert Smith, of the University of Maryland Fire Extension Training Service, spoke. Clyde Michael was master of ceremonies. Rev. Robert Flottemesch officiated at the invocation and benediction.

Gold watches for 25 years or more of service were awarded to Patrick Mills, Victor Keller, Eldridge Guy, William Mayles and Gerald Harrison by Jesse Jacobs of Frostburg, state fire marshal. Bars were given to David Johnson, first lieutenant of the drill team and Charles Legge, second lieutenant. A dance followed the dinner and presentations.

Murphy Manager Feted At Store

FROSTBURG — Robert Bachman, manager of the local G. C. Murphy Company store, was given a surprise party upon his arrival at work Friday morning upon his completion of 30 years' service with the company.

Mr. Bachman started to work for the company on April 27, 1931, at the Meadville, Pa., store. In October 1931 he was made manager of the Warren, Pa., store, where he worked for eight-and-one-half years. He came to Frostburg as manager February 20, 1940.

A cake centered the refreshment table and was served along with coffee to all present.

Two From Keyser Attend Conference

KEYSER—Two representatives of Nancy Hanks Post 3518, V.F.W., were at Jackson's Mill this weekend attending the 16th annual Spring Conference for all post service officers of various service organizations such as the VFW, American Legion and Disabled Veterans.

Delegates from Keyser were Leo C. Shuck, post service officer, and J. S. Clark, post surgeon. Gov. W. W. Barron opened the conference at a dinner meeting last evening.

Uncle Sam tips his hat to the ladies...

for their big part in the Savings Bond Program

From the very start 20 years ago, the U.S. Savings Bond Program has been lucky in having the dedicated support of thousands of American women. Their wonderful cooperation has ranged from the War Bond tours of Hollywood's brightest stars to helping to operate the Savings Stamp Program for the Nation's small fry.

The special talents of American women

Studies have shown that American women tend to be conservative with dollars. Their long look at future security is apt to be pretty practical. So for them, Bonds and the Savings Bond Program are a natural.

Thousands of husbands and fathers owe their Payroll Savings nest egg to the influence of their wives. Many a boy and girl wouldn't have a full Savings Stamp book, but for Mom. And many a Bond would not be sold, but for the army of women volunteers who put their strength behind the Savings Bond Program.

Why it's worth listening to the ladies

Every U.S. Savings Bond you buy is guaranteed to grow by Uncle Sam. Right now the interest paid you is 3½%, if Bonds are held to maturity. Bonds are a riskless investment. If they are stolen or destroyed you get new ones free. And you can have your money back anytime you need it with interest.

Buy and hold U.S. Savings Bonds—join the ladies in their work for a stronger Nation in Peace.

A Message from our First Lady:

During this Twentieth Anniversary Year of the U.S. Savings Bond Program we salute the volunteer spirit of the Women of America in bringing the Savings Bond message of thrift into our family lives. By buying bonds and encouraging others to do so, we help build a more secure future for ourselves and for our country. Most important, this self-discipline of regular savings helps build the spiritual strength so essential to our continued growth as individual citizens and as a Nation.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠ 10 9 4 3 ♥ 5 2 ♦ A 9 3 2 ♣ K J 9
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 3 ♣ Pass

What do you bid now?
A—Your hand represents almost the maximum permitted for a single raise. It would, therefore, be highly improper for you to make a mere return to three spades, which would describe a mediocre raise. The suggested call is three diamonds, a temporary bid. It may prove that partner is probing for big things and, if his next bid happens to be three hearts, we would suggest a four club bid and if that suit is that suit, after that, he should be on his own.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠ J 3 ♥ K 4 3 ♦ Q 9 7 4 ♣ K 8 5 2
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 NT Double ?
What do you bid?
A—Redouble. You have nine points, assuring your partnership of a minimum of 25, giving the adversaries a maximum of 15 points. You are therefore prepared to punish them when they escape at the two level, and if permitted to play one full trump redoubled you will of course score an easy game.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠ A 9 4 ♥ J 8 6 ♦ 6 2 ♣ 8 7 3 2
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♥ 1 ♠ 2 ♥ 2 ♠
3 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A—Pass. The full strength of your hand was shown on the first round by your true bid of two hearts. If this is all partner needed to produce a game he would have bid four hearts himself.

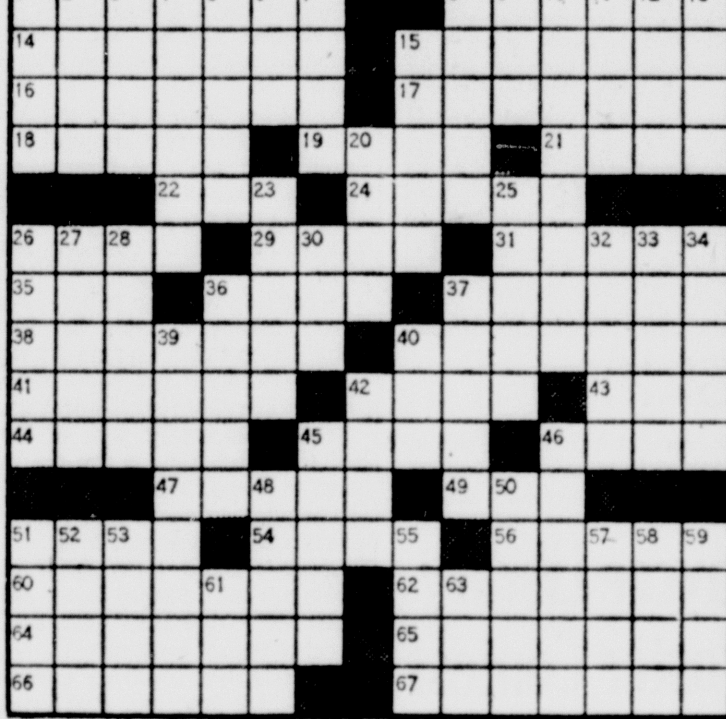

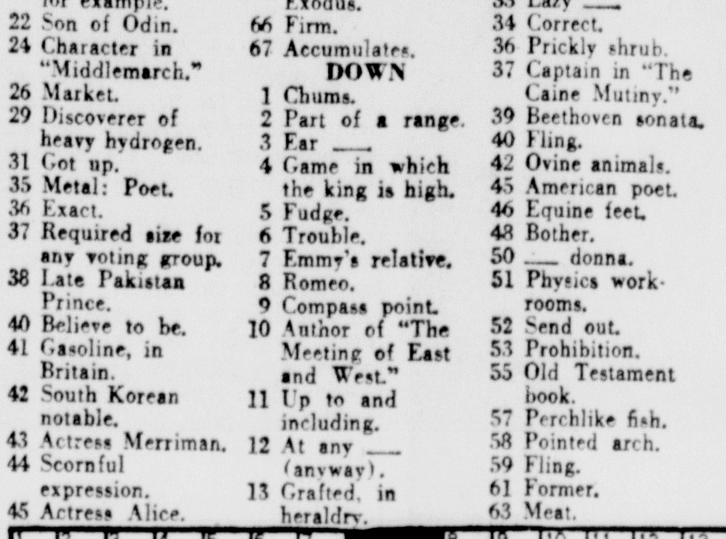

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠ 6 3 ♥ J 10 9 7 5 3 ♦ 2 ♣ A K 10 4
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♥ Double

What do you bid now?
A—Four hearts. The preemptive bid is suggested for two reasons. If partner has opened somewhat light in the third seat, the hand may easily belong to the opponents. In that case your jump bid will make it more difficult for them to get together. Furthermore if West should now bid four spades, you will be in an excellent position to decide on subsequent action. If partner doubts four spades you have adequate defensive values and, if he passes, you can bid five hearts without the least chance that the save will be inexpensive and you may even be able to fulfill an 11 trick contract.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠ 6 ♥ 10 9 8 7 ♦ K Q 6 3 ♣ A 8 6 3
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
3 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A—We recommend an ace showing bid of four clubs at this point. While it is true that partner may, for the time being, interpret this as showing a club suit, we intend to raise hearts at our next turn to bid. This will make it clear that you are looking for a slam. An alternative bid is an immediate leap to five hearts but this might not work out well if partner has a worthless doubton in one of the minors.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠ 5 ♥ Q 6 5 4 2 ♦ 10 8 6 3 ♠ J 9 4
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
2 ♠ Double Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A—Pass. To bid three hearts would be quite out of order. Partner has undertaken to defeat the contract of four spades by himself. It is not your position to act as a nursemaid to him.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠ A ♥ A J 10 7 5 ♦ Q 8 6 2 ♠ 9 7 3
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass Pass 1 ♥ 2 ♦
2 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A—Pass. You have opened third hand in the hope of obtaining a part score and should make no further move. Partner should have a self-sustaining spade suit to bid at this increased level.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Banish That Double Chin!

Dieting will not keep your chin single. So get busy and give your chin a workout to bring firmness to the contour. This is the area where age shows first, and it may be later than you think. If you're young, today's exercises will only take about five minutes a week of your time... to avoid a double chin. If you're in your late 20's or 30's twice and three times a week is advisable. But, as you get on and hit 45 or 50, your schedule should include them twice a day. You can do these exercises (thirty times each) any time, even while lubricating cream is on your face and throat.

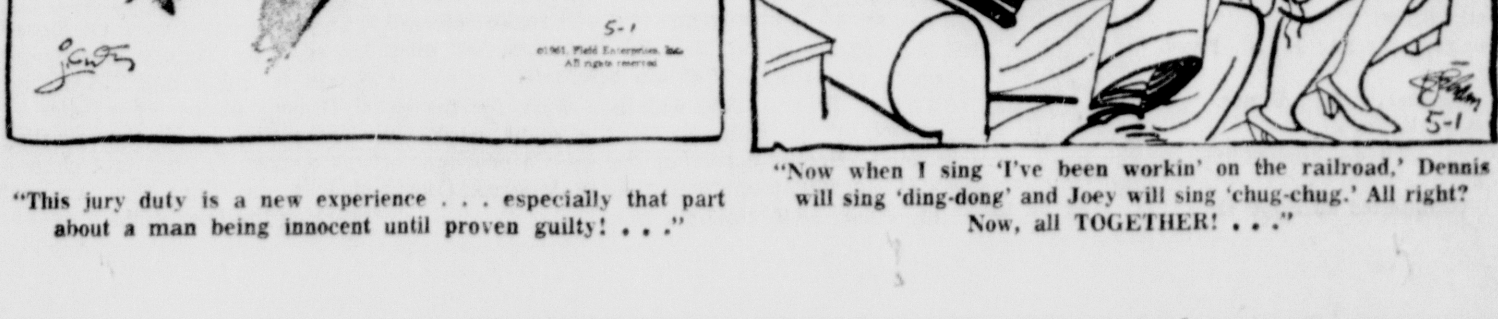

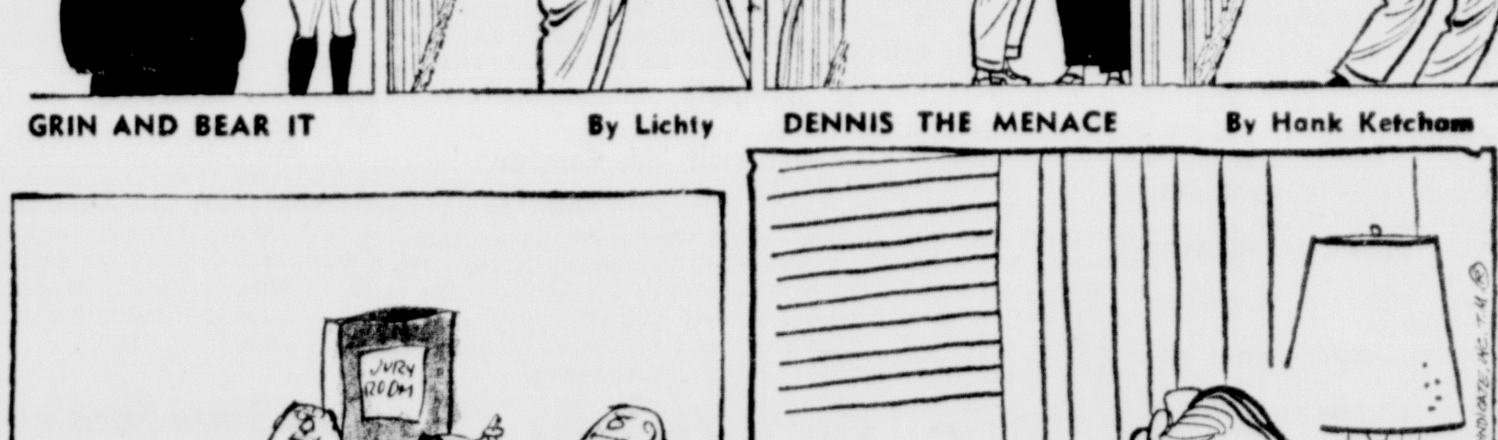

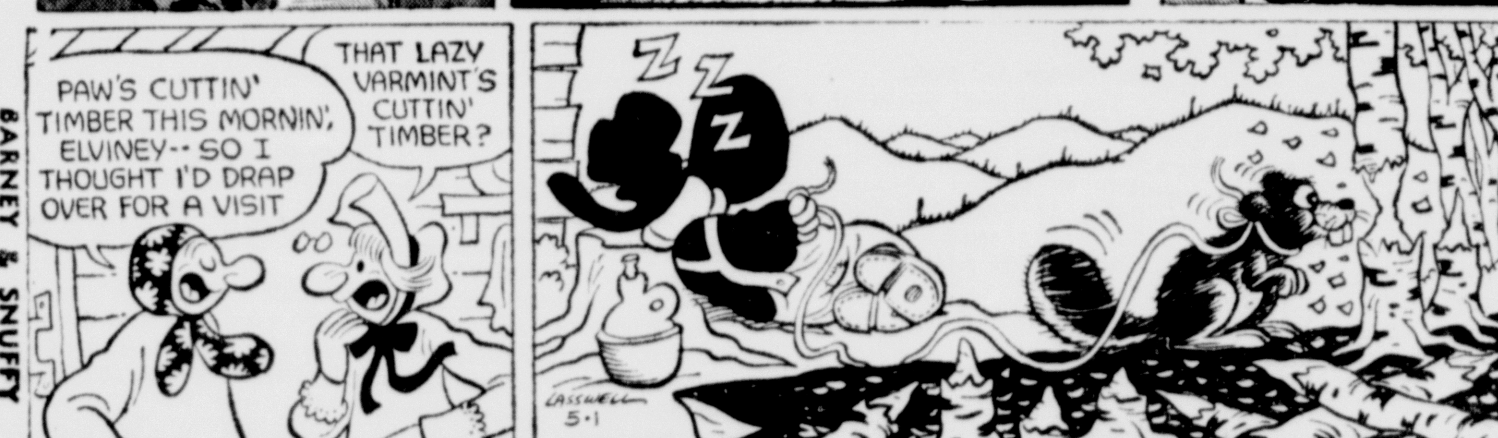

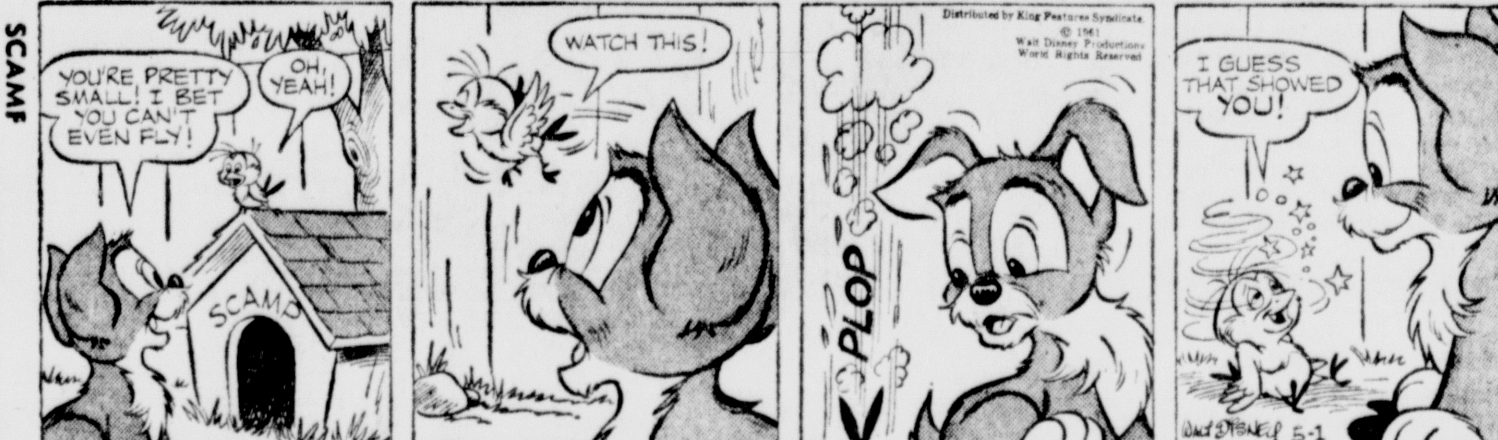

- Place your hands on your shoulders — not the shoulders — will do the moving. Turn your head first to the right shoulder "leading" with the chin, then to your left — each time turning head as far as possible to look over the shoulders.
- Roll your head in a complete circle... down, right side up, left side.
- You know how artists have always enjoyed painting a peasant girl swooning along with a basket on her head. She has a perfect line-up for balancing it and is the personification of grace. I know you can't go around balancing a basket on your head, but you can

Casualties Decline

NEW YORK (UPI)—Casualties among manufacturing businesses in New York City declined to 614 in 1960, 10 per cent below the 679 five years ago, and in sharp contrast with a 14 per cent increase in the rest of the nation, according to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. A steep climb occurred over the past five years in failures of printing and publishing concerns, as well as in the plastic products and food products industries.

12 B&O Freight Cars Derail In Preston County

Wreckage Blocks Two Main Tracks

Twelve cars of a westbound Baltimore and Ohio freight train were derailed at Newburg, W. Va., northeast of Grafton yesterday afternoon, blocking the two main tracks of the line's Cumberland Division.

No one was injured, according to a company spokesman, who said the number two or eastbound track was cleared at 3:20 p.m. (EST). The accident occurred at 1:05 p.m.

Crews from Cumberland and Grafton last night were working to clear the wreckage which was blocking the westbound track.

Passenger Train 11, westbound, was delayed for a while, but Train 12, eastbound, was not expected to be delayed by the accident.

An investigation is being conducted to determine the cause of the accident which occurred as the High Car Time Saver was traveling west through the Preston County community.

There were 100 cars behind the two-unit diesel, according to the spokesman, who said the 59th car derailed, causing the nine loaded and three empty freight cars to pile up along the right of way.

The freight had been made up in Cumberland and was destined for St. Louis.

Veterans May Purchase Home With VA Loan

Direct loans are still available to veterans of World War II and Korea who want to buy homes, according to Sam Weston, officer in charge of the local Veterans Administration office.

Assistance in purchasing a home is offered to veterans by two different plans under the GI Bill, depending on where the veteran wants to live. The most often used provision of the home loan plan is known as the regular loan whereby the loan is made by a lending agency and VA merely guarantees 60 per cent of the loan, up to a maximum of $7,500. This top amount guaranteed would cover 60 per cent of a mortgage of $12,500.

The other plan, for direct loans from the VA to the veteran, was included in the law to make sure the same benefits would be available to veterans who lived or wanted to make their home in areas not adequately served by lending agencies who would make regular loans. Garrett and Allegany counties, with the exception of the city of Cumberland, are among the 19 counties which have been designated as areas in which direct loans may be made.

While both World War II and Korea veterans may now apply for direct loans through July 25, 1962, Korea veterans may continue to seek VA-guaranteed loans through January 31, 1965. Any veterans in Garrett and Allegany counties who cannot secure a lender for a regular GI loan may ask VA for a direct loan to buy the property. VA can loan up to $13,500 for this purpose and the interest on the loan is the same as for a regular loan, 5 1/2 per cent. The veteran makes his monthly payments direct to the VA.

If the home the veteran is buying is priced above the maximum amount available on a direct loan, he must make arrangements to cover the difference. In addition, he must have the necessary settlement fees, since no part of the amount loaned by VA may be used for this purpose.

Direct loans are made from funds appropriated for the purpose by Congress, and VA works from a waiting list established on a first come, first served basis.

For complete information on this or any other VA matter, interested persons may contact the VA office, Room 308, Post Office Building.

Fort Hill Boys Prove Hobby Is Skill

These three Fort Hill High School boys, who have been taking vocational training in the wood shop at the school, stand behind some of the projects they have completed under the tutelage of Lee Alexander. Emphasis is being placed, in high school shops, on developing skills for future vocations or in productive hobbies. The students are Merle Saville, Edward Norris and Larry Ballou.

Shop Teachers Want To Help Meet Unemployment By Training Skills

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

A strong effort has been made this year at Fort Hill High School and in other schools of the county to demonstrate the importance of basic vocational training.

Starting in the ninth grade, students are given a chance to decide the type of course they are going to take in the senior high school work.

Several weeks ago, an exhibit was shown in Fort Hill lobby of a number of projects from each shop in the vocational department. An actual solid fueled missile casing from Allegany Ballistics Laboratory was featured in the exhibit.

The theme of this showing was "Skills Made This Possible."

Lee Alexander, vocational and industrial arts wood shop teacher at Fort Hill, is among the leaders in placing renewed emphasis on vocational skills and skill development in high schools.

Examples of what can be accomplished are currently being displayed in two show windows at Wilson Hardware store on North Mechanic Street. Beautiful, hand-made and hand-finished chests and desks, along with a number of tools and several eye-catching slogans, are featured in the display. The work is considered by Mr. Alexander and other educators as proof that skills can be developed at the high school level.

Knowledge And Skills
The vocational course at Fort Hill combines knowledge with skills. No attempt is made to turn out finished craftsmen, but rather to build a foundation in the fields of mechanical drawing, machine shop practice and wood shop.

According to a recent report on unemployment in the United States, the major cause seems to be a lack of skilled workers. A startling paradox exists all around the nation. Seven out of ten unemployed men are without skill in any trade, craft or vocation. Even in such critical areas as Detroit, jobs are going begging for the lack of skilled workers to fill them.

In the Cumberland area, also listed as a distress area due to heavy unemployment, educators have concluded that there are jobs for skilled men.

Teachers say they have frequently been asked to help find men of particular skills, and most of the shop teachers at one time or another have been offered jobs in local industry because of the special skills they possess. They point to advertisements which appear from time to time for carpenters, bricklayers, machinists and others needed in this area.

It is considered by shop teachers a grave waste of tax money to operate vocational and even industrial arts shops as "places to baby-sit bad boys." They have argued that the shops must have intelligent students if the unemployment problem is to be solved.

Local Girl Gets Position As Speech Therapist

Miss Ann Decker of this city has been employed by the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults in West Virginia, and will serve as summer speech therapist in Charles Town, Jefferson County.

At Charles Town, Miss Decker will evaluate the needs of those children with speech or hearing problems and will make referrals for medical attention, or other appropriate referrals.

She will then work for the remainder of the eight weeks in correcting the speech problems of approximately 65 Jefferson County children.

Miss Decker will graduate in June from

Allegany County Gets $14,923 From Liquor Tax

Allegany County will receive a check for $14,923 from State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein from the distribution of distilled spirits revenue for the third quarter of the fiscal year which ends June 30.

That check is $583 or 4.07 per cent more than the check received for the January-March quarter a year ago. After three-quarters of the fiscal year Allegany County has realized a total of $50,744.50 from this tax on the basis of 50 per gallon for 101,489 gallons delivered to retailers in the county in nine months.

The $50,744 total is $1,225.92 or 2.48 per cent more than for the corresponding nine months a year ago. Seven of 22 Maryland counties reported decreases from this tax for the nine-month period. Garrett County does not share in this revenue because the sale of distilled spirits is not licensed there.

Washington County's revenue from this tax was down 6.39 per cent or $814 for the third quarter. After nine months, Washington County had received a total of $44,501 from this tax, which is an increase of $930.74 or 2.14 per cent.

Local Club Gives Prizes

Fishing trophies and awards for 1960 were presented during a recent annual dinner of the Cumberland Outdoor Club at the club rooms.

W. Donald Mason, assistant state's attorney was toastmaster and James W. Fatkin gave invocation. A short talk was given by George Walters, a member of the Game and Inland Fish Commission, who presented the awards.

Major trophies were presented to W. C. Simpson, Roy Rhodenhauer, Harold Bolinger and Homer Bolinger.

R. E. Dougherty is president of the club, William F. Wagner, vice president; James Burke, recording secretary; Walter Ensinger, financial secretary; Edward Belfoure, treasurer; and Howard M. Kuhns, two-year trustee chairman. One-year trustees are Robert Moyer, Chet Brant, Curt Felton and Walter Oglebay. Mr. Kuhns, who was in charge of the turkey dinner, was assisted by Leslie Oster, Sam Brady, Lee Bailey, James Graham, Robert Taylor, John Durrett, Lee Fuller, Harry Mills, Wallace Kline, Russell McGaughey, Joseph Baldwin and William Homer Seiler.

Two Boys Face Hearings In Shooting Of Man

Two Lonaconing area youths will be given hearings today in Juvenile Court as a result of a shooting incident Friday night in Lonaconing, in which Virgil Alexander was shot in the back with a .22 calibre rifle.

Mr. Alexander, who is former mayor of Lonaconing, was admitted to Miners Hospital at Frostburg following the shooting Friday night, but was released Saturday.

The two youths were questioned Saturday by County Investigator Edwin R. Lilly and T. C. Robert C. Dishong of the State Police. Authorities said the shooting was accidental, but that circumstances in the case warrant charging the two youths.

Jaycee Library Poster Contest Winners Named

Two Designated In Each Division

Six winners were selected in the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce's poster contest for National Library Week, according to Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian of the Allegany County Library.

In the senior division, John Nelson, a Fort Hill High School sophomore, won the first prize and Bonnie Sansom, a Fort Hill junior, placed second. There was a first-place tie in the junior high school division between Patti Ellis, a Pennsylvania Avenue School seventh grader, and Hope Daddysman, who is a seventh grader at Bruce High School in Westport.

Tonna Wilson, a Westernport Elementary School fifth grader, won the first prize in the elementary division and Susan Wilson, a LaVale Elementary School fourth grader, placed second.

The judges also awarded honorable mention for a number of other attractive posters. In the junior high division, honorable mention was awarded Barbara Angle, St. Peter's School, Westport; Shirley Bishop, Crestaport Junior High School; Delores Bland, Jane Brant and Sue Knippenberg, all Pennsylvania Avenue School seventh graders; Paula Patterson, St. Peter's School; Linda Long, Penn Avenue; Karen Reuschel, Flintstone High School; Paul Smiley, Bruce High School; and Carlene Valentine, Penn Avenue.

Thirteen entries in the elementary division also received honorable mention awards from the judges. They included David Evans, Westernport Elementary School; Linda Ford, LaVale School; John W. Grove, St. Peter's School; Bobby Garner, LaVale School; Janice Jenkins, LaVale School; Barbara Hensel, Parkside School; Karen Kescaker, Penn Avenue School; Sharon Leasure, LaVale School; Dana Lewis, Penn Avenue School; John Pannone, Penn Avenue School; Mandy Phillips, LaVale School; Rhonda Richards, Penn Avenue School; and Douglas Wagner, Parkside School.

The prize-winning posters are being displayed in the window at Schwarzenbach's. Winners and the branch libraries they represent have been awarded prizes, according to Miss Walsh.

Dale L. Merritt was Jaycee chairman for the project. He was one of the judges along with James Bauer, Dr. Daniel P. McKenzie, and Robert Hutcheson.

Polio Clinic Here Is Well Attended

The weekly polio clinic held here Wednesday was attended by 304 persons, the Allegany County Health Department reported.

Included were 48 persons who began the course and 39 who completed the series when they received fifth shots.

4,500 Pints Of Blood Used In Nine Months

Mobile Unit Will Be Here Today

Residents of Allegany County used more than 4,500 pints of blood during the first three quarters of the current fiscal year, according to officials of the Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

That amount, it was pointed out, was supplied free of cost to the hospitalized individuals through participation in the Red Cross blood program, and is a potent reason why residents should contribute blood during visits of the mobile unit from the Johnstown (Pa.) Regional Red Cross Blood Center.

The unit will be in Cumberland today from noon to 6 p.m., and volunteers are urged to report to the Eagles Home on North Mechanic Street between those hours.

During the three-quarter period, patients in Memorial Hospital required 1,521 pints of blood, patients at Sacred Heart Hospital were supplied 299 pints, and those in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, 203 pints.

In addition to those totals, Red Cross spokesmen said, the Regional Blood Center supplied 2,131 pints of blood for Allegany County patients in out-of-region hospitals.

Another important part of the Red Cross program is the use of blood fractions, and 6,800 pints of serum albumin were used for Allegany County patients. Memorial Hospital utilized 3,100 pints of serum albumin; Sacred Heart, 600 pints, while 3,700 pints were used in out-of-region institutions.

Stressing the life-saving aspects of the blood program, Red Cross spokesmen said every qualified person should try to visit the blood collection headquarters today and give a pint of blood.

The mobile unit will be at the VFW Home in Lonaconing tomorrow from noon to 6 p.m.

Safety Unit Will Elect Officers

The Western Maryland Safety Engineering Society will elect officers at its meeting this month.

John J. Long, chairman, appointed the following nominating committee: Frank T. Powers, chairman; John H. Hast and Lynn Walker.

The organization met recently at the Cumberland Country Club at which time A. Trago Brust, director of public relations for West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke, was guest speaker.

Mr. Brust emphasized the importance of a good safety program in the public relations work of industry.

Honesty, frankness and a long-term continuing program are part of the basic philosophy of public relations work, according to Mr. Brust, who said there are no shortcuts to a really worthwhile safety program.

"Ninety per cent of an effective program depends on doing the right thing, the remaining 10 per cent depends on properly telling the story of what has been done, and public relations work, like safety, is everybody's job," Mr. Brust pointed out.

On College Paper

Leon R. Armentrout, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Armentrout, 659 Greene Street, has been named campus organizations editor of the Tri-Angle, campus newspaper at Tri-State College, Angola, Ind. He is a student in the electrical engineering department.

Best Recruit

Ralph B. Vincent, seaman recruit, left, is shown being congratulated by his company commander, Petty Officer Lee, gunner's mate first class, for maintaining the highest scholastic average of his company during his nine weeks of Navy recruit training. Vincent, who resided at 34 Green Street at the time of his enlistment, was also presented a letter of commendation from Captain V. J. Soballe, commanding officer of Recruit Training Command at Great Lakes, Ill. Following a 14-day leave, he will report to guided missile school in Da Neck, Va.

'Cleanup' Begins Today

Cumberland's annual "Cleanup Week" campaign will begin today as trucks and men of the Street Department will canvass local streets to pick up trash.

The first section of the city which will be worked today will be south of Williams Street including the area from Winifred Road to River Avenue.

Tomorrow the route will include the area north of Williams Street, including that to Piedmont Avenue and the city limits, and to Bedford and Frederick streets.

The schedule Wednesday will cover the entire West Side, beginning at North Mechanic Street.

Street Superintendent Ray Valentine said the trucks will begin each day at 7 a.m. and residents are asked to have their trash along the curbs at that time.

Mr. Valentine said trash should be placed in old cartons or cans. Papers should be tied in bundles and tree limbs and shrubbery should be tied in bunches. The street official said no loose trash, debris, hedges or tree limbs will be picked up.

However, large items such as old furniture will be collected.

Veterans Plan Visit Sunday To VA Center

Hospital chairmen of the Area Veterans Association, composed of veterans' organizations of Ridgeley, Keyser and McCoole will visit patients in the tuberculosis ward of Newton D. Baker VA Center, Martinsburg, W. Va., on Sunday afternoon.

Roland Showers, service officer of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, said yesterday the program of entertainment will begin at 3 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhythm will provide music, refreshments will be served and cigarettes will be given to the patients.

At 2 p.m. the VA Center will present volunteer service awards to the participating units.

Mr. Showers said the organizations are seeking paper back book reading material for the patients. The books may be dropped off at the following organizations prior to the visit next Sunday.

Ridgeley Legion and Auxiliary; American Legion, Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary, 40-8, Cooties and Military Order of the Purple Heart, Keyser; VFW and Auxiliary and Cooties of McCoole.

Licenses Still Undelivered

Today will be a "Dry Monday" for some 30 holders of alcoholic beverage licenses in Allegany County.

Mrs. Shirley Nolan, clerk of the County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners, said last night that about 30 of the 277 licenses renewed had not been obtained when her office closed at the Court House at 4 p.m. Friday.

All of the commercial liquor license holders got their new licenses in time for the start of the new license year today. Among the 30 left without a license on this first day in the new year are three or four clubs with Class C beer, wine and liquor licenses. All of the other unclaimed licenses are for beer, or beer and wine only. Mrs. Nolan will be at her office on the second floor of the Court House from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. today.

Five Injured In Crash Near Fort Ashby

Two Admitted To Memorial Hospital

Five persons were injured, two of whom were hospitalized, Saturday night when two cars collided on West Virginia Route 28 about five miles north of Fort Ashby.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital were Mrs. Dorothy M. Tracy, 40, of RFD 1, Ridgeley, who sustained rib injuries, and Mrs. Halie Tracy, 71, of 219 Springdale Street, city, her mother, who suffered an injury to her left hip. Both patients are reported in "satisfactory" condition.

Treated at the hospital were Edward F. Tracy, husband of the older woman, who sustained right hand and shoulder injuries and abrasions of his left leg, and Frank Tracy, 43, RFD 1 Ridgeley a son, who sustained a possible fractured right elbow and an abrasion on his forehead.

Slightly injured with a bump on her head was Jill Evans, 15, of Liberty Street, city, a passenger in a car being driven by Gary O. Smith, 17, of Box 129, Cresaptown, who was not hurt, police said.

Four other teen-agers in the Smith car who were uninjured were "Skip" Davis, Decatur Street; William Hose, city; Janice Hedrick, Bedford Road, and Wayne Peer, Old Furnace Road. Trooper T. E. Richards of the West Virginia State Police at Keyser charged Smith with passing on a curve.

The trooper said the accident occurred when Smith tried to pass a car on the curve and hit the Tracy car head-on. Smith was traveling south at the time of the accident at 10:20 p.m. Frank Tracy was driving north.

TB Officials To Attend Meet

Several officials of the Allegany-Garrett Tuberculosis Association will attend the 57th annual meeting of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association this week in Baltimore.

Attending from the local unit will be Sen. Charles M. See, president; Miss Mary Margaret Smith, second vice president; Mrs. Dorothy H. McKenty, executive secretary, and Miss Gladys R. Frantz, office secretary.

The two-day annual meeting will be held Thursday and Friday at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore.

Mrs. McKenty, executive secretary, said the local office will be closed a half-day Wednesday and all day on Thursday and Friday.

The annual meeting will include program conferences, field clinics, discussion periods and a conference for all tuberculosis workers. Principal speaker for the luncheon meeting will be Dr. Mason F. Lord, medical coordinator for chronic diseases for Baltimore hospitals.

Food Dealers Will Stress Merchandising

A merchandising institute will be sponsored by the Independent Retail Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland at the LaVale Fire Hall at 6 p.m. Wednesday, May 17.

William G. Beier, president of the association, said last night that all food dealers and clerks in the area are invited to attend.

Other officers in the association are Luther Hutter Jr., vice president, and J. Goodloe Jackson, secretary-treasurer. A number of experts in merchandising will be heard.
